Ground Broken For New Plant This Morning

Formal Ceremonies At South Mercer St. And South Street Site

Ground was broken this morning at 11:15 o'clock in the huge $2,725,000 expansion program of the Bell Telephone Company as the first step towards providing the city with a modern new central office building at the corner of South Mercer and South streets and conversion of the present system to dial service.

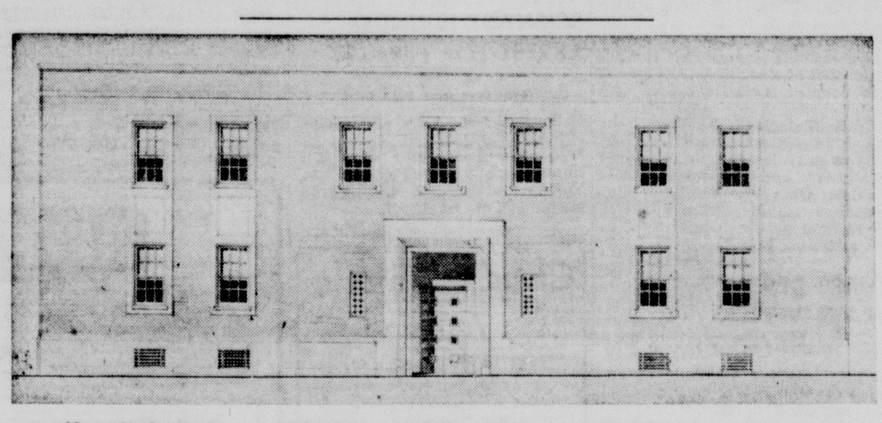

The first shovelful of earth was taken by Mayor John F. Haven at the brief ceremonies on the site of the new building this morning, following which Vice-President and General Manager John C. Longstreth of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, took the second shovelful in the presence of around 50 civic officials, business leaders, and telephone officials.

Immediately following the ground-breaking ceremony, a power shovel, which was on the scene, started the work of excavating for the foundation for the new building. This work is being done by J. J. Fisher, local contractor.

New Castle city schools will begin Easter vacation Tuesday afternoon, March 20 and will not resume classes until the following Tuesday morning, March 27.

Friday marks the end of the six weeks' period of winter that was forecast on groundhog day, Pa Newc is informed. We have certainly had plenty of winter weather since groundhog day, whether the animal saw its shadow or not.

Driving conditions were quite slippery in spots around town around 3 o'clock this morning one of Pa Newc's boys found. Later it seemed to warm up and by morning streets which were slick during the night were covered with slush.

Snow which fell sporadically throughout the night caused highway cinder crews to be called out on the job at 3 a. m. today. Roads became glassy in places due to the lowered temperatures and thus the call for the crews. The snowfall was fairly general, department officials reported.

Disavow Any Knowledge Of Peace Rumors

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, March 15—Peace rumors emanating from the United States elicited from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters today the response that the United Nations command still is under orders to oust the aggressors from Korea.

High-level headquarters sources disavowed any knowledge of the basis for such rumors which originated at Lake Success and other points in America.

To Carry Out Orders

These officials stressed that MacArthur's United Nations armed forces are striving to the best of their ability to carry out their orders to clear Korea of the aggressors and pave the way for political unification of the peninsular country.

They declared that nothing has been received from Lake Success to change these orders or the objective at which the orders are aimed.

At the provisional capital of Pusan, Korean Defense Minister Shin Sung Mo said, meanwhile, that it is the "clear mission and duty" of the UN forces to continue

Asks President To Bring Gen. MacArthur To U.S. For War Talks

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(INS)—Sen. Cain (R) Wash., asked Persident Truman to bring Gen. MacArthur home for talks on what is needed in direction from the United Nations to win the Korean war.

Cain said that if it was proper for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to talk to congress on requirements to prevent war in Europe, it is "just as proper and far more pressing" for Gen. MacArthur to discuss with congress what is needed "to win a war we are already in".

Rose Point Bridge Will Be Closed For Two-Day Period

Alfred A. Martin, county superintendent of highways announced today that the new bridge over the Slippery Rock Creek at Rose Point will be closed for a two-day period within a day or so, with definite announcement of the closing to be made.

The contractor on the job has some false work under the bridge which must be removed and it will be necessary to move in some large machinery to complete the work. To avoid any accidents, the highway department is closing the structure for the two-day period.

The closing was to have been effective today, but due to the inclement weather, the temporary detour was not established. Cars will use the old route that was followed before the bridge was thrown open to public travel. If the weather clears up, the work will be done over the week end in order to get the giant structure opened as soon as possible.

New Aerial Refueling For Bomber Reported

WASHINGTON, March 15—(INS)—The Air Force today revealed the first aerial refueling of the 600-mile-an-hour B-47 Sratojet medium bomber, using the "flying boom" system with a Stratofreighter as the tanker plane.

Air Secretary Finletter has called the six jet-engine, swept-wing B-47 "the fastest bomber in the world" and Air Force spokesman hailed the refueling tests as a significant step forward in the defense effort.

School Budget For City Passes Two Million

School Board Sets Tentative Budget; Millage Remains Same

New Castle's public school budget will pass the two million dollar mark for the year 1951-52.

At the meeting of the New Castle school board Wednesday night the board accepted the budget of $2,002,817, raised salaries for teachers and other employes, and agreed it would set the tax rate at twenty mills, for the coming school year.

To Display Budget

The board authorized Secretary John B. Bechtol to display the budget and the advertisement of such display will be run. The budget will go on display March 26 and will be on display for twenty days after which adoption will come.

All action Wednesday night was tentative in that teachers' final salary raises and the budget totals will depend upon the action of the General Assembly. If the General Assembly increases the basic rates and provides more money it will of course increase salaries and the budget total.

The board tentatively agreed to an increase of $100 per year over and above the cost of living increase granted for teachers last year. Last year the board gave the teachers a cost of living increase of $200. The $200 stand for the coming year, plus an additional $100. In addition the teachers get their yearly increment of $200.

How Salaries Increase

An example of how the teachers' increases work can be shown by taking a basic salary of $2400. To

Strike Threat Against Wage Boost Formula

By FELIX COTTEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 15—The government moves to revitalize the wage stabilization board today despite a labor threat to strike against the 10 percent wage boost formula.

The CIO Packinghouse Workers served notice its 250,000 members would walk out March 26 unless Economic Stabilizer Johnston reversed his refusal to approve an 11.3 cents-an-hour wage boost negotiated on February 8.

First Open Threat

This was the first open threat of a strike against the 10 percent formula.

Johnston based his rejection on the ground that the boost would pierce the wage ceiling formula, which allows a 10 percent boost since January 15, 1950. The workers had already received an 11 cents an hour wage increase last August.

Labor sources, meanwhile, declared that President Truman may have to call a fulldress labor-management conference to break the deadlock between industry and union leaders over wage stabilization policy.

Industry representatives, however, contend that nothing would be gained by calling such a conference.

Thousands Greet First Americans Entering Seoul

By DON A. SCHANCKE
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

SEOUL, March 15—Thousands of crying and cheering Koreans greeted seven American soldiers and eleven correspondents as they entered Seoul today — the first Americans into the South Korean capital since it was abandoned by the United Nations forces January 4.

Korean residents poured from doorways and sidestreets into the warm spring-like sun. Screaming joyfully as they spotted the returning Americans and their British jeep driver.

Mothers held their babies aloft to see the small procession. Behind the crowds of Korean spectators lining the streets were blasted buildings and the rubble wrought by allied bombardments.

Republic of Korea and UN flags were flying from the remains of the capitol building, seat of the South Korean government.

South Korean troops who had entered the city Wednesday were joined today by 80 American soldiers of the Third Division.

The GI's had maintained an outpost outside of Seoul Wednesday night and boated across the Han Thursday to enter the city.

Lt. John Hougen of Minneapolis led the Americans reentering Seoul. Within 1,000 yards of the Korean government building, Sgt. Walter F. Clarkson of Burlington, Iowa, wrote on a wall: "Hougen's hoodlums—here first."

The U. S. patrol scoured the city but flushed out only one of the enemy, a Chinese Red army medical officer.

The South Koreans, however, were putting the finger on North Korean soldiers disguised as civilians.

The South Koreans also were looting abandoned Communist foxholes and entrenchments.

Truman May 'Blow The Lid' On Congress Controversies

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

U. S. SUB BASE, KEY WEST, Fla., March 15.—President Truman will hold the first news conference of his Florida vacation trip today and there is a strong probability that he will "blow the lid" off current controversies in Congress.

He will gather with the news corps on the palm-shaded lawn of his Navy quarters here at 3:30 p.m.

The fact that the White House summoned newsmen to the Presidential doorstep for the first time in two weeks indicates Mr. Truman is prepared to unburden himself on a number of top subjects now in the nation's headlines.

The President has for some time kept silent on such matters as the Senate investigation of alleged "influence" of huge Recon-

Hongchon Falls After U.N. Troops Clamp Steel Noose On City

By LEE FERRERO
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

TOKYO, March 16—(Friday)—United Nations troops smashed into the mid-Korean mountain hub of Hongchon Thursday and reoccupied Red-abandoned Seoul in a broad-scale advance to within less than 15 miles of Parallel 38.

The entry into pivotal Hongchon, 21 miles below the parallel and once the main Chinese Red stronghold in mountainous central Korea, was disclosed in a midnight (10 a.m. EST) field dispatch from International News Service War Correspondent Robert Schakne.

Seven Miles Beyond Hongchon

A daring tank patrol of the U.S. First Cavalry Division stabbed almost seven miles beyond the front lines at Hongchon up the road leading northwest toward Chunchon.

North of Hongchon Allied troops encountered artillery, mortar and small arms fire from enemy troops holding high ground and to the east U.S. Second Division doughboys engaged an estimated 250 Reds in hand-to-hand fighting northwest of Soksa Thursday afternoon.

Southwest of Hongchon American marines met the heaviest enemy artillery fire in weeks.

Reports Sentiment Found In Tour Across Nation

By CHARLES EINSTEIN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 15.—There will be no World War III before November, 1952—and probably not then—if you take the word of experts sampled in a unique grass-roots poll of American opinion.

The man who conducts this highly informal, highly informative inquiry is James C. Gipson, who is something of a legend in the ranks of the Republican party. Gipson, president of the Caxton Printers of Caldwell, Idaho, is a man fortrightly dedicated to the principles of free enterprise and minimum government control as set forth by President Theodore Roosevelt.

Tours Country

Acting on an admonition from "TR," Gipson has spent the intervening years making one or two annual swings about the country in support of the American way of life. Determined never to incur jealousy by holding public office, the 65-year-old Gipson nevertheless has become friend and confidant of countless civic, military and political leaders.

His latest tour of the nation, in which Gipson talked to more than 40 congressmen, as well as businessmen, diplomats, publishers and editors, included a series of questions he asked of everyone from cab drivers to ambassadors.

Majority Answers

These were the questions, and these were the majority answers:

1. Will we have a runaway inflation before November of 1952

This is the day of decision, this is the day you pay, this is the time when your Uncle's in glee, he takes a bite of your hay. Millionaire, banker or worker, all of them have to kick in, how do they like it, well stranger, you hardly expect they will grin. They'll pay but they don't have to like it and every lone soul feels the bite, which means that worn family check book will be very much lighter tonight. Oh sing me an ode to the taxes, the stuff that each person must pay, and sing it my friend in a low plaintive key, it's 42 today.

Judge Braham Is Heard By Members Of Volant Lions

With his regular tricks of the winter, the weatherman caused many of the Volant Lions to miss an opportunity to hear a most interesting talk following their dinner Tuesday evening. The speaker was the Hon. Walter Braham, who talked on "The Kuskuskies and their Early Seat of Power on the Ohio."

With his talk based on figures and records, Judge Braham told of the New Castle area having been the home of the American Indian. He also told of the various localities favored by the redman for his camp sites and stated that in the country from the eastern part of Pennsylvania west to Detroit and southward to Tennessee and the Virginias, there were comparatively few Indians. It was assumed that tribal wars and the disances in the early America were responsible for the scattered population. Judge Braham estimated that but 25,000 Indians could have been counted in the days of the early 17th century in the area named above. He also listed several names of bribes and their chieftans, and whom they fought among both the white settlers and themselves. The whole speech was said to be one of the most interesting heard by the club for some time.

March 27 has been set as the annual Farmers' Night with another extra good program being prepared. Principal speaker will be Ray Sprigle, of Pittsburgh. Music will be supplied by "The Sunset Four" of Grove City, who specialize in square dance type music.

It has been estimated that approximately 100 persons will attend the dinner and meeting.

"Deeply Concerned"

Mr. Truman is known to be "deeply concerned" over current attacks in both the Senate and House on administration foreign policy, with special emphasis on congressional efforts to strip him of powers to send U. S. troops to Europe.

The President laid the groundwork last night for a discussion of this subject when he issued a general review and restatement of American foreign policy in answering the suggestion of a bi-partisan congressional group that he make new efforts for worldwide disarmament.

Mr. Truman welcomed the suggestion but declared that the aggressive attitude of Soviet Russia is responsible for U. S. rearming.

The President said that Russia has consistenly blocked every effort by the U. S. during the past five years to being about an effective agreement for mutual disarming and the outlawing of atomic weapons.

He said that the remaining hope now to attain such a goal is to become so strong that Russia will have to change its attitude. He said that "Soviet Russia has been following a course of obstruction in the United Nations toward all concrete disarmament proposals" while at the same time "it has been building up its own armaments as a central feature of its expansionist foreign policy."

evening was given by Rev. A. E. Thompson of the Free Methodist church. When the chairman, Rev. George Jones, announced that the expense budget of the campaign had been met, the audience sang the Doxology. The remaining week end offerings are the love gift to Dr. Appelman, and will be taken starting Friday evening. No offering was lifted Wednesday night nor will it be tonight.

"Unpardonable Sin"

Speaking on a vital theme Wednesday night the widely known evangelist chose as his subject "The Unpardonable Sin", which he pointed out with the scripture in Matthew 12, is blasphemy against the Holy Ghost. Although it is almost impossible to commit this sin, in this day, the audience was told, some people have committed the sin and others will yet do so if they continually reject God and turn their back on Him.

To commit the sin, Dr. Appelman stated that individuals can practice the sin of malice against God, sin of presumption, sin of willfulness and deliberate hardening of the heart. God's patience is not everlasting it was revealed. Those that refuse are given over to a reprobate mind. When a man ceases to use his spiritual faculties they are taken away from him, the speaker stated. A large group found their way to the prayer rooms following the meeting.

At Sunday afternoon's service, which is expected to fill the Cathedral, Dr. Appelman will relate his personal experiences, "From Lawyer to the Gospel Pulpit". His closing theme on Sunday Night will be "God's Last Word to New Castle".

According to the report of State Police, who investigated the collision, Sweet was driving an auto convoy, which was carrying new vehicles. His truck broke down, and he set out flares and went to sleep in the cab of the truck.

Powell, driving the "piggy-back" truck, came along later, and in attempting to pass the stalled truck, lost control of his truck and struck the back end of the other vehicle.

Hall and Gate, it is stated, were riding in Sweet's vehicle. The condition of Powell and Gale was reported as fair late this morning at the Jameson Memorial hospital.

of the type that Germany had three decades ago or will it be a gradually rotting process as seen in the recent case of France? Majority answer: The latter.

2. Will World War III break out before November, 1952? Answer: No.

3. Will President Truman be a candidate to succeed himself in 1952? Answer: No.

4. Who would be the Democratic nominee if not Truman? Answer: Gen. Eisenhower.

5. Will Eisenhower accept the nomination? Answer: Yes.

6. Should he be nominated? Answer: No.

7. Who will the Republicans nominate and whom should they nominate? Answer: Sen Taft.

Tenor Across Nation

Take it from Gipson, that is the tenor of Republican and republican—the latter spelled with a small "r"—thought across the nation.

One of the answers—the feeling that Gen. Eisenhower should not be nominated for the presidency—requires some explanation. The explanation, according to Gipson, is simple. It is not, he points out, the constitutional purpose of the United States to have a military man as its leader.

War, Gipson feels, is neither necessary nor inevitable. He has been told of amazing unrest among the peoples behind the iron curtain.

"All that must be done," he says, "is that they must feel that this country is the true champion of liberty, and that we are their friends. Once our foreign policy indicates this, Mr. Stalin will have more than he can handle right in his own back yard."

THREE DEAD IN TRAIN WRECK

knifing into the vestibule of another coach, which was derailed but remained upright.

Rescue workers who arrived from neighboring towns said passengers trapped in the wreckage were screaming, begging to be taken out. Witnesses said Mrs. Allen's husband, Robert, kept calling pitifully to his wife who was pinned under the wreckage.

The young father managed to escape with his four-year-old daughter, Linda Sue, but returned to the twisted car in a vain attempt to rescue his wife and other daughter.

N. Y. C. officials said the train was bound for Cincinnati to make connections with the Florida-bound "Royal Palm."

Officials at the scene believed the 14-car, Florida-bound train was derailed by a "fractured" rail at a nearby intersection.

All of the dead were in the fourth car in back of the engine. The death car hurtled off the tracks, snapping utility poles on the way and landing on its side. The two cars immediately behind then plowed into the upturned one.

VIRGINIA PIERSON IS APRIL BRIDE-ELECT

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Pierson of 1126 Rogers avenue, Warren, O., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Willis H. Guinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis H. Guinn, of Huttig, Ark.

Miss Pierson received her bachelor's degree in Home Economics Education from Miami University, Oxford, O., and is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority. She taught Vocational Home Economics in Ohio schools for several years and is now Home Service Supervisor at the Pennsylvania Power company.

Active in business and professional organizations in New Castle and Pittsburgh, Miss Pierson is editor of the Newsletter of the Pennsylvania Home Economics Association and was given national recognition when she received the Laura McCall Award offered by McCalls magazine and presented by the Edison Electric Institute for outstanding achievement in home service work.

Mr. Guinn was awarded a bachelor's degree in Business Administration at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Ark., and a master's degree in Business Administration at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

Mr. Guinn, who is a Certified Public Accountant, is currently associated with the Teletype Corporation of Chicago as chief of the Accounting Division. He is a member of Blue Key, national fraternity for outstanding men on the campus. He served four years in the Finance Department of the U. S. Army and was discharged as a major in 1946.

The couple's marriage will be solemnized the latter part of April.

WALMO KENSINGTON HAS EASTER PARTY

Arrangements of Easter rabbits, eggs and ducks were appropriate decorations when members of the Walmo Kensington club gathered at the home of Mrs. Thomas Nesbitt, Walmo, Wednesday afternoon, for an Easter party. Mrs. Norman Lamm assisted her mother in serving, with flowers centering the table for the occasion.

Chatting and sewing were enjoyed during the afternoon, with Mrs. David McCreary of New Castle and Mrs. Lamm as special guests. The group wrote a card to Mrs. John Madigan, a former club member.

On April 18 the club will meet at the home of Mrs. Ralp Nevel of Walmo.

COPELAND CLASS HAS ANNUAL BANQUET

S. B. Copeland class of the Third U. P. church held their 16th annual turkey banquet Tuesday evening at the church with their wives as guests.

Approximately 100 were served at colorfully appointed tables, the women's places being marked with individual Easter plants.

President Ralph J. Sacripant extended greetings. The program was conducted in a hilarious manner by William Mooney, master of ceremonies. Thomas Grittie gave humorous readings and songs, and continuing in an amusing vein, Mrs. Leroy Book pleased the crowd with a group of songs, assisted by two gentlemen from the audience. William Mooney and his sister, Mrs. Ralph Sacripant, participated in an amusing skit. Pep singing was led by Harry Wyman, with Donna Sherman at the piano.

Special guests were Dr. J. Paul Graham, pastor, and daughter, Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Plummer Gibson, the latter, Sunday school superintendent, and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hook, the former, teacher of the class.

New officers, who will serve for the coming year, were introduced. They are: President, William Bryan; vice-president, Ray Newman; secretary, Harold Scheidemantle; treasurer, L. E. McCreary.

C. D. OF A. COURT PLANNING DINNER

Catholic Daughters of America, Court Teresa Irene No. 231, have planned a post-lenten social affair to be in the form of a sauerkraut dinner, for Tuesday evening, April 3.

The dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock, in St. Mary's auditorium. Mrs. Rose Cypher and Mrs. Eleanor Skundor are the chairmen in charge of the event.

A period of card playing will follow the meal.

These plans were discussed at the recent Court meeting held in St. Mary's auditorium, with grand regent Mrs. Marie Jones in charge.

The social party scheduled for Monday, March 26, has been cancelled. Instead, the Court has accepted an invitation extended by the Ladies of St. Mary's to attend a party on Tuesday, March 27 in the church auditorium.

A donation was given to the Red Cross chapter at this time. Other important business matters were settled after which the meeting adjourned.

AGNEW-WESTCOTT EXCHANGE OF VOWS

Miss Joyce Agnew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Agnew of Quest street, was a beautiful bride for her marriage to Calvin V. Westcott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin W. Westcott, Harbor road, on Saturday, March 10.

Rev. Calvin Rose heard the exchange of vows in the Second United Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock, with lighted candelabra and flowers decorating the altar for the impressive double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Jacob Jordan accompanied Mrs. Robert McCrumb as she sang "Because," "I Love Thee," and "The Lord's Prayer," during the service.

Escorted to the altar and presented in marriage by her father, the young bride appeared in a gown of white eyelet organdy over pale pink organdy. The gown was styled with a fitted bodice, while the jacket featured long tapered sleeves and tiny pointed collar. Pretty accents were sheer pink gloves and a white Juliet cap which held her pink nylon veil. A strand of pearls was the groom's gift, and she carried white hyacinths. She observed the something old, new, borrowed, and blue tradition.

Miss Becky Jones attended the bride as maid of honor wearing a gown of white eyelet over deep pink taffeta. The gown was designed with a pink cape and a full skirt. She wore matching gloves and Juliet cap and carried pink roses, sweetpeas and white hyacinths.

Steve Travers served the groom as best man, with ushers including Bill Agnew and Stanley Gardocky.

Following the ceremony, seventy five guests were entertained at a reception in the church parlor. The newlyweds later departed for a honeymoon to Maryland by motor.

A graduate of the New Castle senior high school, the bride is employed as a telephone operator. The groom, a graduate of the Union high school, is employed at Travers' garage.

THIRD U.P. CLASS CHOOSES OFFICERS

Members of the Mr. and Mrs. Class assembled in the Third United Presbyterian church with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dufford and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chambers as hosts.

COLLEGE CLUB HEARS REV. R. J. HUMBERT

"Life situations baffle us and we attempt to build a better life for ourselves and our family, but isn't it wonderful to be free to do what our conscience dictates?" So stated Rev. Russell J. Humbert, minister of the Trinity Methodist church of Youngstown, O., as he addressed members of the College club at their meeting Tuesday evening in the Jameson Nurses' Home, Wilmington avenue.

The noted minister has degrees from the College of Wooster, Boston university and Mt. Union college, and is known for his work in various Ohio cities and the nation. Beginning his discussion, "Growing Up Today," Rev. Humbert said, "I have come to think with you about some impertinent tasks which we face today. However, it's easy to talk with women, although I never win an argument . . . for I am the father of three daughters and the husband of one wife.

"Let us consider some things about which we should do some 'straight thinking.' First we should think about God, for nations have disintegrated because of poor spiritual life. Then we should do some thinking about ourselves and know what you can and cannot do, and have the ability to control yourself in various situations. A third task we face is that of the kind of choices people are making for themselves. Young people especially need guidance in the type of professions they select for themselves."

Continuing, the speaker stated, "We should think about the kind of home we are building, and the kind of world we are building. Plan to live life as if it were to be lived normally, living one day at a time as it comes along, and above all cooperate with each other to help the best things we know become a reality."

Mrs. Dale Mullen accompanied Mrs. W. J. Caldwell as she sang three lovely selections to the delight of the College club members. These included "Sheep and Lambs," by Sydney Homer; "Wind on a Hill," by Frazer-Simpson, and the clever "Sneezles," by A. A. Milne.

Business was conducted by Miss Ruth Lewis, with Mrs. James Chambers selected as chairman of a nominating committee and including Mrs. Crawford Lyon and Mrs. Dale Mullen.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Sara Sankey McCune, Mrs. M. Dale Andrews, Miss Sarah Dinsmore, Mrs. Ralph Gilliland, Mrs. I. Miller Henley, Miss Emily Johnston, Mrs. Richard McKee, Miss Virginia Pierson, Miss Mary Riffer, Mrs. K. C. Steele, Miss Ruth Wallace and Mrs. Roy Williams.

WESTMINSTER GROUP HEARS MRS. SMITH

Members of the Westminster auxiliary assembled in the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening, when Miss Olive Webb conducted a worship period.

Mrs. Frederick Smith, a missionary on furlough from Colombia, South America, gave an informative talk on her work there. Her son, Freddie, who was dressed in a native Indian costume, sang "Jesus Loves Me" in Spanish.

A refreshing lunch was served from an attractive table, decorated in the Easter theme and white tapers in candelabra. Mrs. Harry Elder presided at the tea service.

Miss Martha Grace Elder, Miss Lena Mae McConnell and Miss Alice Reese were hostesses. A panel discussion on "Missions" has planned for Tuesday evening, April 10, at the church.

Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Bertha Brown, with the topic being "Argentina". Various members took part.

The business meeting was in charge of the president, Miss Katherine Eve, and later a delicious lunch was served by the hostess. A quiz game was conducted by Miss Dora Carlson.

The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Hazel Ryhal, Moore avenue, with Mrs. Raymond Gustafson as co-hostess, on Tuesday, April 10. Mrs. Joseph Eve will be the leader for the evening.

WIMODAUSIS HAS PLEASING LUNCHEON

About 125 ladies of the Wimodausis assembled Wednesday afternoon in the main dining room of the Cathedral for their regular weekly meeting and luncheon.

Tables were decorated with yellow vases of forsythia, a colorful St. Patrick's motif predominating. The delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Warren Broadbent and Mrs. Ivor Carlson, hostesses, and their committees.

After the luncheon, Mrs. M. M. Ingram, acting president, introduced Mrs. Wilfred Thomas program chairman, who presented guest soloist Floyd Cotton who sang two beautiful numbers, accompanied by Edwin K. Lewis.

A one-act play entitled "Sunday Costs Five Pesos" and written by Josephina Niggli, was directed by Miss Mildred Burleson. Members of the cast included Francis Capezio, Carlotta Christofer, Lois Felton, Gay Anderson and Jeanne McKissick.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, April 11, the hostess to be announced.

BUSY DOZEN HAVE HOLIDAY PARTY

A St. Patrick's day party highlighted the meeting of the Busy Dozen club when the group met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Juliano, Croton avenue. Miss Judy Juliano was a special guest of the evening.

Mrs. Lena Mehlic, president, conducted the business meeting, with plans made for a sausage fry to be held in the near future. Moving pictures were shown by Mrs. Dorothy Smith.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, aided by Mrs. Emma Farrone. The St. Patrick theme was carried out in the decorations. On March 28 the club will gather at the home of Mrs. Susie Germani, Beatty avenue.

JEWISH COUNCIL TO SEE RED CROSS FILM

The New Castle Section of the National Council of Jewish Women will conduct their meeting on Tuesday, March 20, at the Tifereth Israel synagogue at 8:15 p.m.

An interesting film entitled, "Volunteer 5240," which relates the various phases of the Red Cross work and campaign in this vicinity will be shown. This is being presented in conjuction with this month's theme—Community Welfare.

In addition, Harry F. Culliford, who is attached to the Civil Defense and Red Cross in this area, will speak. Prior to the program, two laboratory technicians of the Red Cross have volunteered to type the blood of all in attendance, as a service to the members.

A large attendance is expected at this meeting, which is devoted to the Red Cross as a vital part of our community's welfare.

THE CROW HAD SENSE

There may be some excuse for the fellow who shot at a crow and hit an explosives plant with a bang that was heard for 15 miles. He was fined only $250 after he told the judge he hadn't seen the plant through the underbrush. Perhaps he was careless, and maybe he needs a little target practice. But shooting at crows is a popular pastime around Pearl River, N.Y.—and how was a visitor from New York City to know about an explosives plant?

The way the public acted was another matter. From 700 square miles of New York and New Jersey people came to see the excitement. Their cars blocked the roads, and they parked them anywhere. Fire apparatus and ambulances being rushed to the scene were hopelessly cut off. People thought an atomic bomb had exploded, and they didn't want to miss the fun.

If they had been right, some of them might be dead by now. Nuclear radiation can kill. If such sightseers were to escape radiation damage, their curiosity could cost the lives of many victims and the loss of valuable property by cutting off rescue. There is less excuse for them than there is for the crow-hunter. Some mothers took their children to the scene because it wouldn't have been "safe" to leave them home while mother satisfied her curiosity!

Apparently the world is full of people who think nothing of taking criminal risks with other people's lives—and their own. In fact, the individual that seems to have shown the most sense in the whole affair is the crow. He made himself scarce, and hasn't been seen since.

HIGHWAY HAZARDS

Every state is becoming increasingly concerned over the increase in traffic deaths. The disgraceful record of traffic casualties is being made in the face of a nationwide program of safety education which begins with the children in school, sponsored by local and state organizations, and all law-enforcement agencies.

Licensing of automobile drivers was touted as the panacea for highway accidents. All states except one now have automobile driver license laws, but these have not proved a deterrent to reckless driving. It might be concluded there is no way to solving this problem. Education has failed. Regulation has failed.

But there is a cure, and it rests with the drivers of automobiles. In practically every accident resulting in death speeding is a factor. Liquor takes its toll. Is it too much to hope that eventually those who operate automobiles will develop proper regard for their own lives and the lives of others.

Until that great day arrives, traffic deaths will continue to mount and the hazards of the highways will increase.

EISENHOWER'S STAND ON A-BOMB

Publication of General Eisenhower's forth-right declaration in favor of "instant" use of the atomic bomb in a war if it would bring sufficient destruction to an enemy should help to clarify a question that has remained much too long in a clouded and baffling condition.

The statements of the supreme commander of the Atlantic Pact Army were made before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees. There was no suggestion of a threat in what he said, but an effort to present a frank opinion as to what should be done if, as he remarked, the Russian leaders should be really such fools as to start a global war.

The nubbin of his ideas about the A-bomb was in this part of his testimony: "If I thought the net (result) was on my side I would use it instantly, because I would proceed from this basis: The United States is not going to declare war or conduct an aggressive campaign. It is merely going to defend itself, and if someone, in spite of its peaceful purposes, jumps on it, I believe in using what we have in defending ourselves."

That is a sound attitude which meets plainly a great deal of inhibited thinking, at home and abroad, on this subject, particularly a notion that we should wait until Russia starts a war and strikes first with atomic weapons.

To put this proposition on a realistic basis does not, for a moment, justify any conclusion that timely use of atomic weapons would make development of other forms of defensive strength unnecessary or less necessary. No greater mistake could be made. And that such errors are not contemplated is demonstrated encouragingly by President Truman's approval of a $2,000,000,000 program for an "atomic age fleet" including a supercarrier, snorkel submarines, rocket-launching ships, submarine "killers" and numerous other new types of vessels, as well as modernization of 1,000,000 tons of existing ships.

In further requirements for powerful army and air forces, in strengthening Western Europe, gains are being made, if slowly, and these vital needs must not be neglected. An avowed enemy must be left under no misconceptions. He must be kept assured that if the free world, with all its desire for peace, is attacked it will fight back with every ounce of strength—and every possible resource.

Underground Red Resistance?

Indications are mounting today that something in the nature of organized underground resistance to Communism is developing on the home soil of Soviet Russia.

The outcome could be a potentially successful revolution or a massacre perhaps without precedent in history—the plotters becoming the victims.

Ever since the Soviet Union embarked upon its policy of aggressive expansion, international observers have sought some sign that masses of the Russian people oppose a course of action that could mean their obliteration in an atomic war.

Not Too Greatly Encouraged

They have not been too greatly encouraged.

The Soviet secret service is immeasurably strong; the punishment for conspiracy is summary and swift. And the great rank and file of the people are still insulated against contact with the outside world and subjected to a drumhead of propaganda which pictures the western democracies as arming for invasion of Russia.

Yet now—for the first time—a broadcasting station calling itself the "Free Russian Radio" has been heard in London with a call to freedom-loving people to rise and strike down the regime of Premier Marshal Stalin.

There was immediate jamming. At times the broadcast became inaudible.

But some clear instructions were heard. These included a suggestion that anti-Stalinists write on walls letters or symbols standing for "death to tyrants" and the use of extreme care in contacts and conversations.

Reach Wide Audience

Significantly, the broadcast was heard both in Russian and Ukrainian, indicating that the plotters hoped to reach a wide audience.

The Ukraine always has been considered the Soviet Union's main weak spot.

An armed guerrilla movement has been under way there almost since the end of the war; it is supposedly common knowledge that during the conflict Ukrainians welcomed the Nazi invaders as liberators from Communist oppression.

The Nazis' own record in this regard would hardly fit them for any such role. But the Ukrainian is different from an ordinary Russian and it is possible these people would have taken to a measure of autonomy under Germany in place of their useless and voiceless role in the Communist set-up.

The difficulty of promoting rebellion in a dictatorship is well explained by an old military axiom that a crippled man in a wheelchair can hold 300 others at bay if he has a machine-gun and inexhaustible supplies of ammunition.

No one outside the MVD and its mystery shrouded secret service adjuncts know exactly how many men and women have been designated as watchdogs over the Russian people.

Assuming that Communism is a false philosophy, it is likely that a large proportion of these go about their grisly jobs mainly to keep them.

Many others are doubtless fanatics. But in the event of full-scale revolution, a switch of allegiance by thousands could be anticipated and certainly no one could aid a popular uprising more than the men originally delegated to prevent it.

Passive Resistance

Present purges in Czechoslovakia and elsewhere, the wholesale desertion of satellite diplomats, and reports of industrial deficiencies that indicate a shrewd form of passive resistance, all seem to point to the undisputed fact that Communism is having its troubles.

Were it not for the intensive militarization of all Russia and the satellite states, the current unrest might be regarded as encouraging to the western world.

But thus far there has been little concrete evidence of organization for revolt. The broadcast heard in London may be of enormous importance—it is equally possible that those responsible for it were on their way to Siberia almost before the last syllable echoed. At the moment the most that can be said is that the situation will bear watching—and listening.

MATTER OF TASTE

Some foods I like and some I don't.
Some pies I'll eat and some I won't.
At lunch or dinner
A thick soup best appeals to me,
But some would drink it down like tea
And like it thinner.

I like my steak cooked "medium rare."
A baked potato, opened where
I put a pat in
Of butter, just for flavor's sake.
Some want potatoes with their steak,
Creamed or au gratin.

Some friends like spinach. I do not!
Of tastier foods I know a lot
And more delicious.
But I don't shout: "This stuff I hate!"
I merely leave it on my plate,
Not being vicious.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

A YOUNG CHILD AND RELIGION

The young child's spiritual life begins at home and whatever growth it has is almost solely nurtured there. The spiritual sustenances he gets come from the family atmosphere and his parents create this atmosphere. The kind of spiritual atmosphere they create depends on the kind of person each one is, each one's own inner spiritual life, the relations of each parent to the other and to their child.

Though there can't be much religious growth in the child whose parents are indifferent or antagonistic to things spiritual, yet for one or both parents to be deeply religious won't guarantee a rich spiritual atmosphere for the child. On top of the religious zeal of each parent there must be love and devotion and companionship between the parents and deep appreciation of each and both together for the child and affection for and from the child, if he is to find rich spiritual nurture in the family atmosphere.

Spiritual Development

Parents who care about the best spiritual development of their children will each endeavor to cultivate his own spiritual self through private and public worship. They will strive to foster affection and esteem for each other, companionship with each other. They will strive, moreover, to appreciate the child as a person and to win his abiding affection and esteem. "Make me so fair and just, so considerate and companionable to my children, that they will have a genuine esteem for me. Fit me to be loved and imitated by my children" is a portion of "A Parent's Prayer" (to be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.)

But both parents may not see eye to eye or feel heart to heart about spiritual matters for themselves or their children. One parent may be indifferent to things the other parent considers of spiritual importance; or indifferent or even antagonistic to church attendance or religious ceremonies at home. Even so, the other parent, with a fine appreciation of this parent as a person, might even win his cooperation or acceptance. Anyway, so long as there is mutual love and companionship between the parents, one parent alone might accomplish wonders in nurturing a wholesome spiritual life in the child. Of course, when it's a matter of different religious faiths between the parents, one might choose to cooperate with the other parent or espouse this other parent's faith, for the sake of their child's spiritual welfare.

In a good family atmosphere it need not be difficult to effect direct religious instruction in the home and to practice such ceremonies as grace at meals, family prayers and Bible reading; or to learn together catechisms or church school lessons and the like. All such practices can best be begun and nurtured when the child is very young. Spiritual leaders in every faith are glad to advise parents on these matters. Wonderful, too, when the rabbi, priest or parsons sits occasionally in the family's midst and leads them in worship.

TAKING FORM

Greek Army "Evzones"

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

ATHENS, March 15—One of the best buys I ever made in my life was the 14th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

This'll be hard for you to believe, but I am forever and amen coming across things in that little ol' set of books that I didn't know before.

I made a $10 down payment on the set when I first came to New York in 1928 and was making a brilliant name for myself as sandwich maker at a B and G sandwich shop. Shortly after the books were delivered to me I was fired by B and G (I'll always believe the manager was jealous of my skill with peanut butter, jelly, and egg salad) and I disappeared into the mists which so often envelop youngsters striving for a foothold in New York.

Caught Up To Me

It was not until seven or eight years later, when I was a sports writer with the United Press, with a desk of my own, that the salesman caught up with me and demanded the rest of his dough. I still had to pay in installments, but this time he took no chances. He was with me so much that people took him for my keeper or my brother.

Before I leave on a trip like the one I am on now I always read the Encyclopedia all the way through, and this practice always pay off.

For example, when I passed by the Royal Palace here and the strangely garbed sentries guarding it, I was able to correct Jean, who thought the Sadler's Wells Ballet was giving an outdoor performance, and tell her that the soldiers were Evzones.

"Evzones," I said, quoting page 934 of Vol. 8, "are members of rifle units in the Greek army, recruited from mountainous districts, and wearing a picturesque dress with wide skirt and tufted shoes. Their organization corresponds to that of a line infantry regiment."

I could tell by the way she hugged my arm that she was proud of being married to a walking encyclopedia with receding hair.

Tom-fool-est Costume

But the Encyclopedia does not do justice to the uniform of the Evzones. It is without a doubt the tom-fool-est costume any fighting man ever wore. The skirt is a dead ringer for a ballerina's, exposing more leg and stocking than one sees watching a Parisian can-can.

On their heads the Evzones wear a red stocking cap with a tassel of tremendous proportions, and on their feet they wear boudoir slippers with giant red pompons. Having no pockets in their uniform, if you can call it that, they sport big red pocketbooks.

They look a bit like sissies, but the history of the Evzones proves that a man who'd call them sissy is just plain tired of living and seeks an immediate one-way ticket to the hereafter. They're tougher than a rhino with an aching wisdom tooth and, despite their Pavlova appearance, would rather fight than eat.

Don't Change For Winter

They don't bother to change into long underwear when winter comes. They go right out in the snow, flimsy skirts and all. They were the fellows who spear-headed the fight against the Italians, and if the Germans hadn't taken a hand would have been eating spaghetti and swigging chianti in Rome. All of them are hand-picked, all of them stand six feet or better, and their favorite weapon is the bayonet.

As an old infantryman, I am glad Uncle Sam does not dress its GIs in a uniform similar to that worn by the Evzones. Washing a pair of khaki pants, or a green fatigue suit, is tough enough, but can you imagine having to carrying an ironing board and an iron into the field. And, I guess, wear a girdle. Else how do the Evzones keep their stockings up?

While on the subject of the military, no fewer than fifty Greeks have told me that nothing could make their country happier than to have Gen. Eisenhower pay a visit.

They say it would lift the morale of the people more than any other single thing could.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

I don't know what luck Ike will have with the Atlantic Pact command, but I hear he got a cable from Tokyo reading "Is that Columbia job still open?", signed "Disillusioned Doug".

But from MacArthur's experience it's obvious why the administration wants no ceiling on the number of American troops who will go to England to defend Brooklyn. They just don't want Ike to get lonely.

But the idea of congress wanting a say about the number or dispersal of American troops in Europe is ridiculous. Shucks, we got into Korea without even a committee meeting and the whole congress couldn't have gotten us in quicker or deeper.

If congress will just stick to things like investigating domestic gambling, it will find there are willing hands to take care of all the foreign gambles.

The way these fellows sometimes act you'd think they had been elected to handle the nation's business.

Anybody knows that a congressman is elected to send out seeds and name postmasters. When he goes beyond that he's overstepping.

Washington Calling

(By MARQUIS CHILDS)

Some Foreboding On Europe Defense

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Despite brisk assurances that the resolution on the issue of troops to Europe now before the Senate is really all right, or will shortly be made al right, those most directly involved are not assured. At General Eisenhower's headquarters outside Paris there is deep concern that amounts to gloomy foreboding over the future of the unified forces for the defense of the North Atlantic nations.

This concern has been passed on to the Pentagon here. But what can be done to unsnarl the tangle and get action without too much additional delay no one seems to know.

The assurances come from Republicans who want the Eisenhower mission to succeed and yet who cannot bear to widen the split in their party by offending the Taft-Hoover faction. Conspicuous examples are Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Senator Smith of New Jersey. They bear a considerable share of the responsibility for clouding the language of the resolution and tying the issue up in the House as well as the Senate.

Plenty Of Blame

But there is plenty of blame to go around. Seldom have so many engaged in botching something so essentially simple and yet so profoundly important.

The first botcher was President Truman himself. He approached the question of congressional consultation or approval with the increasingly familiar "I dare you to" attitude. He seemed to be issuing a new defy to the members of his own party from the South with whom he has long been feuding.

They responded in kind. Senators George of Georgia and Byrd of Virginia were not going to rise above this quarrel. Here was an opportunity to put a collar and a leash on the administration.

In the way in which he handled the hearings Senator Connally of Texas, Chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, added fuel to the fire. Connally's technique has more and more become that of the man with the bladder in the burlesque show.

It can often be screamingly funny. But sometimes the bladder explodes in the wrong face. Moreover, this is not exactly the right approach for Herbert Hoover, particularly when the hearing room is packed with the former president's friends and admirers.

Has Few Equals

As a comma worryer and a phrase dissector, Smith of New Jersey has few equals in the Senate. He has been as nervous as a cat on ice in the course of trying to make sure that all factions of the Republican party would be happy while at the same time the transfer of troops can be approved in the shortest possible time so that Eisenhower can go to work. That feat appears at the present moment at least to have been beyond even such super-anxious efforts.

In the strategy of opposition followed by the Wherry-Taft-Hoover wing of the GOP the contribution of one individual has been overlooked. Brigadier General Bonner Fellers (retired) has been a sort of one-man brain trust for Mr. Hoover and Senator Taft.

On the pay roll of the Republican National committee under the modest title of adviser on veterans' affairs, Fellers is much more than that. In a magazine article last September he spelled out in detail the line since taken by the Taft-Wherry-Hoover combination. That article expounded the now-familiar thesis that Western Europe cannot be defended against the "terrific combative effectiveness of the Red Army." Blaming the State department for committing the United States to assist in Western Europe's defense, Fellers wrote:

"It is my belief that few professional military men of reputation really believe such a program can succeed."

Surprising Stand

This is surprising in view of the fact that the joint chiefs of staff, both collectively and individually, have endorsed the program for a North Atlantic defense force. Fellers advises terminating the military assistance program at once, advising "our allies" that the equipment given them so far should be enough to preserve internal security, ending the Marshall Plan immediately and abandoning the Point 4 program. Reliance on air power, supplemented by sea power is elaborated.

Fellers served on General MacArthur's staff in World War II. In a sense his stand represents an extension into the present of the old Asia vs. Europe, MacArthur vs. Eisenhower controversy that raged for the most part under cover during the last war. Fellers pays tribute to MacArthur's "genius," indicating, however, that even this might not be sufficient to stem "hundreds of thousands of the Oriental Red army" on the ground in Korea.

The only person who admits to being pleased at the resolution before the Senate is Senator Wherry. That is in itself almost enough to show, when all the uncertainties of language have been combed over, which way the struggle in committee went. For General Eisenhower on the end of that long European limb this must have rather more than an academic interest.

PARIS — Alexandre Parodi, French delegate to the big four foreign ministers deputies conference: "There is no question of any plot against the USSR. But since June we have had great fear of the USSR."

NEW YORK—Gen. George C. Kenney: "There is no need for panic. If we use our brains we can surmount any emergency."

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

On my desk is another one of those letters which makes me feel sure that things are still pretty much all right with the United States.

It is an invitation to join an organized movement against the installation of a natural gas pipeline in our neighborhood.

That pipeline may explode, says the letter, and blow us all to Kingdom Come. It will decrease the value of our property. It is a violation of our inalienable American rights.

A little while ago I had another invitation to joint one of those protest movements.

It was against the construction of a much-needed new highway too close to our section.

That, too, would be detrimental to our propery value. It would endanger our children (which we don't have), our dogs, our cats. And it, too, would be a violation of our inalienable American rights.

I don't usually join any committees or movements.

My first editor, when I was a cub reporter, gave me one of the basic requirements for a good newspaperman:

"Always be a spectator, never a participant. That is the only way to remain unbiased."

But these anti-this and anti-that movements are good for a community and good for the country.

There also lies the great difference between the big cities and the smaller towns and villages.

In the big cities people have become too apathetic.

All they care about is to be left alone.

Individuality is practically nonexistent, civic interest is shown mostly by those who have something to gain by it.

The main reason, of course, is the fact that the great majority of the inhabitants of a city such as New York or Chicago are renters.

One can't be expected to show much interest or pride in Apartment 314 on which one has only a year's lease.

One isn't very apt to defend another man's property.

But in the smaller places the great majority of the inhabitants own their homes.

That little house of theirs is their castle. That piece of ground onto which they step when they go out is theirs. They have dreamed of it, worked for it, saved for it.

That house, that plot, is their very LIFE; it is part of themselves.

Heaven help the intruder! Perish the usurper who aspires, to even one inch of that precious property!

Home owning isn't all beer and skittles. Taxes, mortgages, repairs, upkeep, are heavy burdens.

But if you have never owned a home, get yourself one! It is a wonderful satisfaction to feel that earth under your feet and say to yourself "This is mine."

And what is "mine" I will defend. I will protect it. I will fight for it.

Because that lot of mine is a piece of the same America for which the boys are now fighting in Korea, for which men fought in 1776.

If this be maudlin, make the most of it.

New Anti-Tank Weapon Developed For U.S. Use

PHILADELPHIA, March 15.—(INS)—Dr. Vannevar Bush, one of America's top scientists, disclosed today that U. S. scientists have developed a new anti-tank weapon of "unprecedented power" designed to make Russia's heavy tanks obsolete.

Dr. Bush, president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, revealed that the new anti-tank weapons are effective at ranges as high as 2000 yards.

Dr. Bush described the new weapons as relatively small recoilless guns that can be mounted on jeeps or handled by a squad.

"Once they are in quantity production," Bush told the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin forum, "they can be built by the hundreds for the cost of a single heavy tank."

Bush said the anti-tank gun is one of the advanced weapons which science must produce to defend a line in Europe against Russian attack.

Calls For Atomic Weapons

He called for the perfection of atomic weapons to be effective against masses of men and equipment which Russia would have to concentrate for a breakthrough in Europe.

Bush said that since 1945 America has been in a stalemate as far as all-out war is concerned.

"That stalemate holds today," he said. "If we use common sense in making the most of the opportunity it give us we can . . . avoid war and preserve freedom."

He credited American possession of the atomic bomb with preventing an immediate Russian attack, but warned "that time will not last forever."

"The time may well come," Bush declared, "when our strategic bombing power will no longer be a deterrent strong enough to hold the Russian armies behind the line." He added:

"I believe that we of the free world can at that time defend a line in Europe, if we move wisely now in preparing ourselves. For that defense there must be an army highly trained and it must be supplied with the best and most advanced weapons that science and productive ingenuity can devise."

FIFTH BIRTHDAY

NEW YORK — (INS) — Trans World Airlines recently marked the fifth anniversary of its commercial trans-Atlantic service. During that time TWA has made more than 9,000 scheduled flights and has carried more that 414,000 passengers on its international routes. Added to its war-time experience TWA has more than 18,500 ocean crossings.

House Votes Approval For Reorganization Of R.F.C. Wednesday

WASHINGTON, March 15 — —(INS)— The House Wednesday voted its approval of President Truman's plan to reorganize the Reconnstruction Finance Corporation, the target of the Senate's "influence" investigation.

The affirmative vote took House adminstration leaders by surprise as they had privately anticipated the plan would be rejected. The plan calls for substitution of a single administrator in place of the five-member board which now controls the RFC.

The House stamped its approval on the President's plan by rejecting a Republican whose adaption would have had the effect of killing the proposal.

Muroc Dry Lake Base Is Destined To Be Greatest

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., March 15. —(INS)—Edwards air force base at Muroc dry lake is destined to become the nation's largest aircraft testing center, absorbing an estimated 90 per cent of the experimental work now being conducted at Wright-Patterson Field, Ohio.

That information was given by Lt. Col. Robert W. Hedleston, base executive officer, at a round table session of the Kern county chamber of commerce in Bakersfield yesterday.

The huge installation covers 183,000 acres of the Mojave desert. It gradually is being expanded from its present 5000 population to accommodate 28,000 with facilities and conveniences of a modern city.

Freight Rate Increase For Railroads

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(INS)—The government on Wednesday granted the railroads a two to four per cent interim freight rate increase estimated to boost the nation's freight bill by 200 million dollars a year.

The interstate commerce commission, in granting the hike, said it will amount to a freight rise of 2.4 per cent on a national average.

The carriers had requested a six per cent boost. The ICC will hold further hearings at an unspecified date on the question of making the increase permanent.

In 1850 world sugar production was 1,500,000 tons.

Newly Edited Bible Has Been Issued

CHICAGO, March 15—The Catholic Press, Inc., has announced the publication of a new-type Bible aimed at easier readability through editing which follows the continuity of the text.

Almost all Catholic Bibles in the past have devoted an individual paragraph to each verse—usually a single sentence—without regard to the usual divisions of paragraphs found in ordinary prose writing.

The Rev. John P. O'Connell, 33-year-old editor of the new Bible, said the departure from traditional style was prompted by a desire to make the volume less "somber" and "forbidding" than old-fashioned texts.

Included in the new version, O'Connell said, are 42 documents by various Popes dealing with the Bible which, it was hoped, will break down the feeling that Catholics are discouraged from reading the Bible.

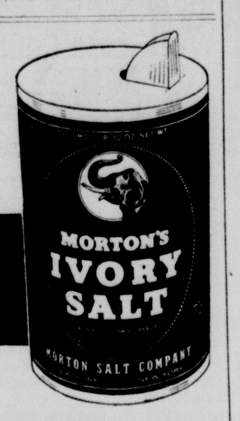

AIR FAIR

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Air Force Officers' Wives club is busy planning its second annual fair for the benefit of needy Air Force families. The fair will be held March 31st, at Bolling Field Air Force Base in Washington, D. C. Last year's event netted the club more than $2,000 for Air Force welfare.

Of those who are not promoted, 76 per cent have unpleasant character traits.

Would Outlaw Communist Party In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, March 15. — (INS)—Legislation outlawing the Communist party in Pennsylvania is proposed today in two bills before House committees.

The measures were introduced by Rep. John Mazza (R) Washington, who described Communists as criminals and said he wanted Pennsylvania "to be the leading state in taking firm positive action against the inherent dangers of the Communist party to this country."

One bill would impose a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and three years imprisonment or both for anyone convicted of membership in the party or any related subversive organization.

In addition to these penalties, convicted Communists would be barred from holding elective or appointive office in the commonwealth and any political subdivision, from filing for elective position, and from voting in any election.

The companion bill would amend the state election code by prohibiting the Communist party from appearing on any ballot and empower the election bureau to reject nominating petitions, papers and certificates of the Communist party or Communist-dominated groups.

Mazza sai dhis bills represent the most drastic action yet taken against Communists anywhere in the United States. He included no concrete provisions for enforcement.

Action on the bills may be taken next week after they are studied by the judiciary and election committees.

Dartmouth Begins Work-Ease Course

HANOVER, N. H. — (INS) — A laboratory designed to make life for the average industrial worker easier, more interesting and more effective, as well as to bring large savings to industries, is being established at the Thayer School of Engineering at Dartmouth College.

The new workshop will be called the "Work Simplification Laboratory."

Prof. William P. Kimball, dean of the engineering school, stated that students who are taking courses in both Thayer and the Tuck School of business administration will use the new laboratory beginning with the February semester.

George A. Taylor, assistant professor of engineering and management, will be in charge of the laboratory and the course in work simplification.

Specially designed work benches, tools and equipment are being installed. Following periods of class-room instruction on the philosophy and techniques of work simplification and motion study, the engineering-management students will utilize the "lab" facilities to work on actual projects for industry. Projects include phases of industrial processing assembling, packaging and layouts.

Major and industrial concerns in the nation have sent actual factory and shop problems to the "lab" for use by the students. The students, working in small groups, will analyze each project, and then devise and make whatever fixtures are necessary. The process steps will be recorded by motion picture cameras and shown in slow motion for further analysis.

Five Percenter Probe Behind Closed Doors

WASHINGTON, March 15. — (INS)—Senate "five percenter" investigators went behnd closed doors today to look into a number of "specific cases" in which influence-peddling has been reported.

Chairman Hoey (D) N.C., said that he had no immediate plans for public hearings, but that the cases now in the subcommittee's files, as well as others being reported by businessmen, will be given intensive investigation.

One matter still marked "unfinished business" is the status of Joseph Major, identified as a "very good friend" of President Truman. He is employed in the General Services Administration, top purchasing agency of non-military government supplies.

Major's name came up in yesterday's open hearings when GSA Chief Jess Larson said that he had been barred from procurement matters because he "did not possess the judgement needed to represent the government."

Larson made his statement after Sen. Nixon (R) Calif., brought out that Major, reportedly a World War I buddy of Mr. Truman, had been mentioned in both the 1949 "five percenter" hearings and the current Fulbright probe of "influence" in the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Believe Leaks Of Strategic Goods To Russia Plugged

By JOHN E. CARLOVA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 15 — Informed American and British sources said the west has plugged all the main leaks of strategic supplies to Russia.

An American official conceded it is possible a slight trickle might be reaching the Soviet Union from western European countries where he said "the administrations are weak."

Further Anglo-American approaches may be made to Sweden, now contemplating whether to retain her traditional neutrality on exports.

Switzerland—another traditionally neutral country—published a decree early this month controlling the export of strategic goods, after Anglo-American representations.

An American official denied that potential war materials are still reaching iron curtain countries from Britain. He admitted, however, that the United States would like Britain to cut down the supply of Rubber to Russia and China, even though rubber is not on the strategic list.

In the first 11 months of 1950, 66,500 tons of British rubber were shipped to Russia and 31,388 tons to China.

A Board of Trade spokesman said Britain felt she would achieve little good by cutting off the rubber supply to communist countries unless Indonesia followed suit.

Clamp Down

Britain clamped down on the export of potential arms-making machinery at the end of last year, after Winston Churchill had brought the matter up in parliament.

Board of Trade figures for 1950 show that $32,200,000 worth of goods, mainly machinery, went to Russia; $19,320,000 worth went to Poland and $12,040,000 worth to Czechoslovakia.

Up to August, 1950, Russia was the largest single buyer of British power plants. Eleven stationary and 23 mobile stations generating 750,000 kilowatts—15 per cent of the capacity installed in Britain in the same period—were sent to the Soviet Union.

The American official said it was not United States policy to choke off all western trade with the east because that would mean economic chaos for some of the western countries. He said that Britain, for instance, depends heavily on Russian grain and timber.

Conservative members of parliament, not satisfied with the government's present policy, are pressing for a total ban on British ships carrying goods to eastern Europe or China.

Ernest Davies, foreign undersecretary, said the government did not consider such action necessary.

Some British firms have imposed a ban on themselves. They refuse to accept orders of any kind from communist countries.

Thirty-two thousand high schools were operating in the United States in 1940.

Hubbies And Wives Nix Brotherly Love

PHILADELPHIA.—(INS)—Philadelphia may be the "City of Brotherly Love," but it apparently can't lay claim to being the home of matrimonial bliss.

At least that's what one suspects after reviewing the 1950 parade of ruesome twosomes through Quaker City divorce courts.

Last year's 11-month record of domestic upheaval adds up to 3,953 couples who have instituted actions to sever their marriage ties, already surpassing 1949's 12-month total by 132.

It appears that the situation is getting worse just when it looked like it was improving.

In 1946, when 6,590 divorce proceedings were started, Philadelphians were breaking up pairs like naive poker players. Freedom-granting judges have been less busy every year since—until this year.

In the opinion of one court official, the upswing is not the result of inability to abide one's mate.

D. Barlow Burke, principal deputy prothonotary of Philadelphia courts, thinks that the immediate reason for the increase is simply that more disgruntled marriage partners are able to afford separation costs.

He suggests that the Pennsylvania War Bonus and the GI insurance dividend "had a lot to do with it."

All-Time Mark In State Egg Production

HARRISBURG, March 15. — (INS)—The State Agriculture Department today reported Pennsylvania chickens produced 3,377,000,000 eggs during 1950 to register an all-time record.

The state ranked below Iowa and Minnesota in egg production for the year, according to the department.

In February, farm flocks totaling 20,690,000 layers produced 306,000,000 eggs but because of the 28-day month the yield was six million under the January level.

Liveweight chicken and turkey prices as of February 15 were 1.5 cents above the January average but the price of eggs dipped 9.8 cents.

Poultry feed costs showed little change in the reported period, the department said.

Milk Production Down

Meanwhile, milk production declined during February about four per cent because "more than the usual" number of dairy animals went to slaughters, according to the department.

Federal-state surveys pegged the output for the short month at 428,000,000 pounds for January.

During 1950, the department said, Pennsylvania dairy herds produced a record-breaking 5,938,000,000 pounds of milk to break the 1949 mark by two per cent. Pennsylvania ranks sixth in the nation among milk producers.

During the year, approximately 963,000 milk cows were counted or a drop of one percent from the previous year.

Beef prices were reported by the department at a record high in mid-February of $29 a hundredweight compared to $26.50 a month earlier. Veal prices were up $3.70 a hundredweight to $37.40 in mid-February.

Mixed dairy feed advanced five cents a hundred pounds during the reported month and was 60 cents above the level established a year earlier.

Electronic Magic Aid To Fisherman

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—(INS) — Electronic fish-finders, which have virtually revolutionized commercial fishing in recent years, soon will be available to pleasure boat anglers.

A midget fish-finder—claimed to be the world's smallest—has been developed by Bendix Aviation Corporation's Pacific Division here especially for the pleasure boat field.

The baby model operates on the echo-sounding principle, just as the famous commercial models. These instruments, which actually are electronic depth recorders, locate fish with uncanny accuracy by bouncing high frequency signals off the ocean bottom and drawing, in chart form, a detailed picture of everything beneath a boat. They thus take the guesswork out of what long has been one of man's most speculative occupations.

"Until now, however," says Robert P. Geddes, Jr., marine sales manager for the Pacific Division, "the magic of electronics has been denied the pleasure boat fisherman because the instruments were too large and expensive. But the baby model takes care of that. It weighs only 14 pounds, is about the size of a large cigar box and can be mounted on any boat. It will operate off storage batteries, if necessary, because it uses no more current than a 60-watt light bulb."

Boiling Water Best For Steeping Tea

The simple but important reason why bubbling boiling water should be used in making tea, instead of just hot water, is that most of the good flavor in tea comes from tiny particles of essential oils in the leaf, and these can only be drawn out at temperatures close to boiling point.

Farm Roundup

Take Pot-Shots At Brannan

Farm Organizations Have U.S. Secretary In Merry Dance

WASHINGTON, March 15. —(INS)—Farm organization sharpshooters still have got Agriculture Secretary Brannan dancing from foot to foot.

These groups, led by the powerful American Farm Bureau Federation, took many a pot-shot at the floor under Brannan when he waltzed his farm price plan around the nation.

The old Brannan plan has now become a forgotten wal-flower—mainly because of Farm Bureau fireworks.

But the pistol packing "bullies" are still shooting up the town. Their favorite target is dancing again and with a new partner—the agricultural mobilization program.

The farm organizations want to shove Brannan into the background. They are asking the leaders of the mobilization program to surround themselves on high policy levels with farm advisers, thus bypassing Brannan.

The farm request is somewhat similar to a demand put to Economic Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson by labor leaders. But Wilson so far has not given in to farm leaders requests and Brannan hopes he will not.

The farm leaders say the farm-preparedness program headed by Brannan is not doing a good job. Brannan answers this charge by surrounding himself with several new special "advisers" on such matters as fertilizer and machinery and by the anticipating critics' demands.

The Agriculture Department on Monday will report how closely farmers are following the government's request for a record volume of crops this year.

The Federal Crop Reporting Board on that day publishes its report on prospective plantings for 1951 based on farmers intentions as of March 1.

The Production and Marketing Administration announces final approval of recommended changes in the Tulsa milk marketing order.

The changes provide for an upward adjustment of 20 cents a hundredweight in the price differential for Class 1 milk in the Tulsa milk marketing area for all months of the year, and for an additional 40 cents for July.

Before the amendments can become effective, they must be approved by two-thirds of the dairy farmers serving the Tulsa area.

Meat production under federal inspection for the week ended March 10 totaled 298 million pounds.

The Agriculture Department says that production increased two percent above the 292 million pounds the week before, mainly because of increased hog slaughter.

Today's Fashion Flash

NEW YORK, March 15.—(INS)—Swim suits will be designed next summer to include two trends: Brief breeches and dainty decorations.

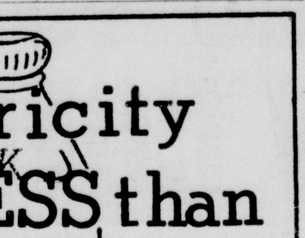

Bathing beauties of 1951 will wear suits that combine a basically tailored silhouette with feminine detailing.

The skirted "dressmaker" type suit is on its way out, and is being replaced by either sleek-fitting elasticized suits, or fabric models that are cut in brief shorts-and-halter styles.

To provide the frippery that the average lady likes on her swim togs, designers are making halter tops that are inset with fishnet-type mesh, or appliqued and embroidered with small-figured fancy patterns.

The very newest bathing suits sometimes sport tunic skirts which ripple from the waistline to an inch or two above the hem of the shorts . . . or little long-sleeved and form-fitting bolleros that can be snapped off at water's edge and donned again for warmth and chic when the swimmer emerges.

Mrs. Greenglass Is Witness At Atom Bomb Trial

Tells How Husband Was Induced To Become Wartime Spy

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 15.—(INS)—Mrs. Ruth Greenglass testified at the atom bomb trial Wednesday on how her brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg, gave her $150 in November, 1944, to induce her husband, David, to become a wartime spy for the Russians at the Los Alamos A-bomb project.

Her husband, David Greenglass, 29-year-old former Army sergeant, then was working as a machinist foreman at the atomic site.

Garbed in black, set off by a silver clip at the throat, the black-haired Mrs. Greenglass corroborated the story of espionage intrigue which her husband previously gave as a star government witness.

Mrs. Greenglass is accused as a co-conspirator, but has not been indicted as a defendant.

On trial with Rosenberg, an electrical engineer, is his wife, Ethel, and Morton Sobell, an electronics expert.

All could be sentenced to death if convicted.

Mrs. Greenglass, mother of two children, said that at first neither she nor her husband wanted to enter into the spy deal suggested by Rosenberg. She said Greenglass' sister, Ethel Rosenberg, assured her that it was "right" for her brother David to get into the spy work.

Assigned To Los Alamos

She testified her husband was assigned by the Army to Los Alamos in the summer of 1944 and that she made a trip to New Mexico to be with him on their second wedding anniversary, November 29 of that year.

"Julius said he knew my husband David was working on the A-bomb," Mrs. Greenglass related. "Julius described it as 'the most destructive weapon in existence,' and that it had dangerous radiation effects. He said he felt the Russians should know about it, and he wanted me to ask David to get information for him.

"At first I objected. But I consented to deliver his message to David after Ethel said to tell David it was right for him to do it."

Mrs. Greenglass said Rosenberg wanted a physical description of Los Alamos, the type of security in effect, the names of scientists working there, what David was doing and other information.

"I memorized the information David gave to me," Mrs. Greenglass continued. "I told David to be careful, that Julius warned he was not to take papers out of the project or to get himself involved."

Turned Over Information

On her return to New York City she said Rosenberg came to her home and she wrote down the information her husband had given her and turned it over to him.

Judge Irving R. Kaufman asked Mrs. Greenglass did Rosenberg say where the money was coming from.

"Yes," she replied. "He said it was from friends, the Russians."

Greenglass himself previously testified that when he was stealing the bomb secrets he did not know the notorious Dr. Klaus Fuchs.

Dr. Fuchs pleaded guilty of espionage in London last year and is now serving a 15-year sentence.

Under cross-examination at the atom bomb spy trial, Greenglass stuck to his story that he provided atomic information for the Russian spy ring—but he insisted he did not know Fuchs.

Defense Attorney Emanuel H. Bloch asked Greenglass about the day in June 1945 when Gold came to Greenglass' apartment in Albuquerque, N. M., and gave him $500 for information and sketches on the Los Alamos project.

"Do you know that after Gold contacted you he saw Klaus Fuchs that very same day?" asked Bloch.

The witness replied he did not know that. He said he first heard about Fuchs when Rosenberg came to his home in New York City in May 1950 and told him Klaus had been arrested and that the trail might lead to Gold, and eventually to him (Greenglass.) That was when Rosenberg was urging him to flee the country, the witness said.

The deer fly was the first creature known to cross the sonic barrier. It has a speed of about 800 miles an hour.

City Employes And Officials Are Divided

Some Disagreement Over Appeal Upon Pension Decision

There is a sharp division of opinion among some city officials and employes concerning a proposal to take an appeal from the decision of Lawrence County Court which recently held the City Officers and Employes Retirement system to be illegal, because the ordinance providing for the system, exceeded the provisions of the state law.

Some believe the local judge's decree, agreed upon en banc, would be reversed by a higher court, and with this belief, are campaigning for expenses to carry the appeal forward. Others are of the opinion that the judge's decision will be upheld, and while the appeal is being taken, a new proposed pension plan will be delayed.

According to reports, it will cost $1,000, to carry a successful appeal, and approximately $500, if the judge's decision is upheld.

At present, the fund, which the court has ordered dissolved, as of January 5, 1951, amounts to $60,-169.20.

There are eight persons now who drew a total of $624.15 in pensions last year. They are Frank Connor, Jesse Graham, John Jones, Samuel McCurdy, Marshall McMillen, Chester McMillen, William Alexander, and Neil Williams.

Under the provisions of the court decision they were to pay back the sums paid them in pensions.

In the meantime, city officials and employes, have no pension plan, and are not included in Social security, hence, Safety Director R. I. Davis started a move Monday, to provide the city employes with protection, the same as received by other employes, which resulted in Joseph Medure presenting a motion, which passed, ordering the legal bureau to draft a new pension plan—which if a court appeal is taken, will delay its presentation.

Solicitor Robert White said that any plan must include both officials and employes. However, all members of council, excepting Finance Director Albert Hoyland who is in Florida, signified their intention of remaining out of the pension system now advocated.

The last date for taking the appeal is March 28.

Work Rushed On U.S. Air Base In Great Britain

By MILTON KAPLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKENHEATH, Eng., March 15 —Expansion work is being speeded today on the U. S. Air Force base at Lakenheath—keystone of the American "atomic airfield" network in Britain.

American anti-aircraft artillery units are "digging in" along the circumference of the giant field. Permanent new barracks are going up. Landing surfaces are being improved.

B-29's and B-50's that are constantly being modified to improve their range and fighting qualities fly around-the-clock, and in all kinds of weather.

American military men describe the huge Lakenheath base as "probably the most important operational airfield on the perimeter of the Iron Curtain countries"—a fact pointed up dramatically by Winston Churchill.

Might Be "Bulls-Eye"

The wartime prime minister arose in the House of Commons recently and warned the country that Britain might be the "Bulls-eye" for a Russian attack because the labor government has permitted establishment of "an American atom base in east Anglia."

Churchill did not refer specifically to one base.

He might have been referring to any one of five American airfields in the eastern section of England known as east Anglia.

Those are Bassingbourne, in Cambridgeshire; Sculthorpe and Wyton, in Norfolk; and Lakenheath and Mildenhall, in Suffolk.

All are considered vital in any American atomic bombing strategic plans.

Military experts in the United States and other countries generally agree that if an east-west war broke out in Europe, the Russians would be able to push to the Atlantic within a few weeks—wiping out allied air strength on the continent.

The allies, they say, would have to rely—heavily—on the English bases.

Finest In Britain

Of the five east Anglian bases under American control, Lakenheath is described by American and British officers as the best, probably the finest airfield in Britain.

Because of climatic oddities, Lakenheath has "the best weather in Britain," according to meteorological officers on the field. It has been the most important English "diversion field" — a base where planes can land when other bases are "weathered out."

Lakenheath's runways, up to 9,500 feet long, can handle any American plane now in operation or being planned.

Six giant B-36's carrying a simulated atomic bomb load recently spent four days in training at Lakenheath before returning to their Texas base.

Lakenheath, built for the Royal Air Force near the end of World War II, is under Lt. Gen. Curtis Lemway's strategic bombing command, which was set up to roam the world and "hit selected targets" in the event of war.

The air base is less than 1,600 miles from Moscow, a four-hour trip by B-50 and only 1,300 from Leningrad.

The B-29's and B-50's now in training at Lakenheath and other east Anglian bases are the 509th Bomb Wing, from Walker Field, Rosewell, N. M.

The permanent group at Lakenheath is the 750th Air Support Wing, commanded by Col. Harold A. "Pop" Gunn, an air force veteran of Denver, Col., former commander of the Goodfellow, Texas, Air Base and of Atkinson Field, British Guiana, during World War II.

COST HIGH

DETROIT—Teen-age vandalism costs Detroiters an esstimated $2,000,000 a year and city officials hope to trim the bill by appealing to the youngsters' patriotism. "Shortages of building materials," said Louis Miriani, council president, "makes such destruction a hindrance to the defense effort and a betrayal of our soldiers fighting overseas."

Asks Receiver For Door Firm

In an equity suit filed in the office of Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar, William A. Watson, a stockholder in the Ellwood Aluminum Door company, asks that officers of the company be enjoined from wasting the firm's money. He also asks that a receiver be appointed.

Watson says he has 50 shares of stock in the company which have a par value of $100 each. The equity suit is directed at the Ellwood Aluminum Door company, Daniel Dundas, the president; Theodore Levi, the vice president, and Edward Fitzsimmons, the secretary.

Watson says the company is solvent but that with the shortages of materials the company needs the assets which will not last long unless some relief is granted.

TWO SENTENCES

Two sentences were handed down by Judge W. Walter Braham on Wednesday.

Guido Filagenzi was assessed the costs and jail sentence suspended for resisting an officer. He had previously paid a fine of $5 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Thomas L. Woods received a suspended sentence for unlawfully carrying a revolver.

Health Talks

FEATHERS

Granddad says that he likes chicken but not feathers. Mom knows what he means. He knows that each different kind of meat has it's particular good flavor. It also has an off flavor that doesn't taste so good.

Mom fixes roast chicken just the way granddad likes it. She puts a little onion and a little sage or sumpin in the stuffing or dressing. She puts in a very little then she smells it and has grandma smell it too. She tries to get rid of the feathers and still keep all the chicken.

Granddad raises a few chickens. He has his own ideas about how they should be killed and dressed. Mom tells him that his chickens taste better than butcher shop chickens and he believes it. She doesn't say anything about the onion and sage and you know Mom.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Edward Everett Horton says that audiences in Cambridge, Mass., take their theater-going very seriously indeed—even when the fare is frothy and inconsequential as his long-time vehicle, "Springtime for Henry". His opening performance in Cambridge evoked no merriment whatever. Horton was in despair until an old lady burst into his dressing room and declared, "You were just wonderful, Mr. Horton! I do declare, there were times when you were so funny it was all we could do to keep from laughing out loud!"

Mildred Miller of Cincinnati has a friend with an uncanny ability for saying the wrong thing at crucial moments. His latest faux pas occurred at a garden party attended by the city's elite. He had it all figured out that the way to please a woman on a hot night was to tell her how cool she looked. His first opportunity came when his boss' wife brushed past him. But instead of saying, "How cool you look," he blurted out, "You don't look so hot!"

CANDY GIFT

VIENNA. — (INS)—The mayor of Vienna has his hands full today with 915 pounds of American candy and it's a "gift" he can look forward to each year. He was notified by Edward Vintscher of New York City that Vintscher's mother, Viennese by birth, had died and stipulated in her will that each year the mayor be sent "lots of candy" for distribution to needy children.

STALIN PRIZES

MOSCOW, March 15.—(INS)—Russia's council of ministers announced today the award of scores of "Stalin prizes" for oustanding works in science, invention and literature in the Soviet Union during 1950.

The Moscow Communist newspaper Pravda hailed the awards in an editorial titled "The Triumph of Soviet Science."

MAY CAUSE BREAKDOWN

STAMFORD, Conn., March 15.—(INS)—A Stamford psychiatrist says cheating on his income tax may start a man toward a nervous breakdown.

Dr. Stanley R. Dean warned, "for every $100 a man saves by fraud on his tax return he may spend $1,000 in mental and nervous health.

"I have seen it happen."

Mrs. Greenglass Back On Stand

Continues Her Testimony In Atom Bomb Case

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 15.—The wife of the government's key prosecution witness at the trial of three accused members of an A-bomb spy ring returns to the stand today for additional questioning by defense counsel.

Mrs. David Greenglass, wife of an ex-sergeant who already has confessed his part in turning atom bomb secrets over to Russia, yesterday corroborated her husband's story that his brother-in-law and sister urged Greenglass to give them information wanted by the Russians.

Greenglass had obtained considerable atomic information in his work at the Los Alamos, N. M., experimental development.

Mrs. Greenglass gave a complete recital of how the brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg, and his wife, Ethel, allegedly prevailed upon Greenglass to reveal data. On trial with the Rosenbergs is Morton Sobell, a radar expert.

The triple trial took on added significance with the arrest last night of a young Columbia University scientist, Dr. William Perl, on perjury charges stemming from the current atomic espionage case. Perl, described as one of America's two top sperialists in aerodynamics and jet propulsion, was seized by the FBI.

Phone Employes In Enjoyable Party

Fellow employes of Ralph Nevel and Jim McFarland, two local employes of the Bell Telephone Company, were guests of honor at a party held in a local restaurant Tuesday evening.

The affair was arranged as a courtesy to Mr. Nevel who will retire at the end of March, and to Mr. McFarland, who will re-enter the service of his country soon, having been recalled to duty by the U. S. Navy.

Congratulations were offered Mr. Nevel, and Jimmy was wished the best of luck by his fellow employes, a large number of the friends of both speaking. Both were presented with gifts in memory of the occasion.

The dinner was an enjoyable event, and motion pictures were shown later, wiht an evening of good fellowship being enjoyed by all. Three former employes, now retired were present on the occasion. They were: Harry Dean, Sam Lyons, and George Pollock.

Grid Tickets Contract Let

Other Minor Matters Before School Board

Baseball season is hardly here yet, but the school board is looking ahead to football season. At the meeting of the school directors Wednesday night a contract was awarded to the Weldon, Williams, Lick Company for $679.52 for football tickets for the 1951 season.

The board changed the retirement age for teachers from 65 to 66. Several requests came to the board from teachers ready to retire this year, asking they be permitted to teach one more year in order to qualify for the new retirement regulations. In order to make the rule general the board upped the retirement age one year.

Mrs. Evelyn Watt, a teacher, presented her resignation because of a change in residence. It was accepted.

Bills in the amount of $13,116 were approved.

The date of the April meeting of the board was set for April 18, instead of April 11. A special meeting for April 4 was arranged to meet with architects of the Thayer Company who have been making a survey of the school system here.

Books For Lent Listed By Library

Did you miss the books on the first two lists of Lenten reading prepared by your public library?

Perhaps you will enjoy one of these following:

"Here I Stand" by Roland Bainton is a new and readable life of Martin Luther.

"Greatest Thing in the World," is an essay by Henry Drummond—on love. It is old but always popular.

Two novels worth reading are Thomas Mann's, "Joseph and His Brothers," and Louise A. Stinetorf's, "White Witch Doctor."

Other excellent choices are: "Snowden-Douglass Sunday School Lessons," by Earl L. Douglass; Imitation of Christ," by Thomas and Kempis: "Rediscovery of Morals," by Henry Charles Link; "Vision of Fatima," by Thomas M. McGlynn; Father Flanagan of Boys' Town," by Fulton Oursler; 'Mature Mind," by H. A. Overstreet; "Guide to Confident Living,' by Norman V. Peale; "Quest of the Historical Jesus,' by Albert Schweitzer and "Peace of Soul," by Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen.

Gen. Omar Bradley Warns Nation On Preparedness

PHILADELPHIA, March 15.—(INS)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, America's No. 1 soldier, bluntly warned the nation today that its preparedness for all-out war "is below par—compared to the dangers that confront us."

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff told the fifth annual Philadelphia Bulletin Forum that U. S. preparedness "will continue to be below par until each of us realize that every available American must be trained for defense."

Dangerous Decade

"This decade will be a dangerous one," Gen Bradley said, "unless we meet this matter squarely and maintain the effort and the sacrifices which universal defense service requires."

He cautioned that there are "possible Munichs, tempting Czechoslovakias and more threatened 38th parallels still in the world today."

"And the death of any freedom," Gen. Bradley asserted, "diminishes our own, for Americans have a share in freedom throughout the world."

The top U. S. general declared that complacency "could still be the undoing of America and the free world" in the perilous months ahead.

Gen. Bradley said "even greater danger could lie ahead, not entirely because of what our enemies may do to us but dangerous in what we may fail to do for ourselves."

May Avoid All-Out War

Through a proper and sustained preparedness," he added, "we may avoid the peril of an all-out war. But if we stop short of adequate defense, we may invite the war we hope to prevent."

Gen. Bradley said that in "improving the power position of free nations," the U. S. is not "merely mobilizing its own resources, but is aiding in the rebuilding of the military strength of freedom-loving nations and peoples who have joined the cause."

"Our deep-rooted American interest in the cause of freedom," he said, "is not mere sentiment, nor is it sham. It is neither dogma, nor dictate.

"Our interest in freedom is evidence that the United States has a stake in a law-abiding world—a world that is secure."

Makes Reply

In answer to mobilization critics who contend that rearmament "can only lead to conflict," Gen. Bradley said:

"To such people we say that it is a mistake to assume that power is important only in coercion.

"On the contrary, the fact that a nation, or a group of nations with a single purpose, is really powerful may make a test of strength unnecessary, and may create conditions that much easier."

Gen. Bradley also had an answer for those whom he said "may feel that assisting the mobilization of our friends is misplaced effort." The head of the joint chiefs of staff declared:

Easy To Understand

"It is easy to understand the frustration of men who are impatient with hesitant allies. The easy conclusion is: Why bother?

"But the man who becomes easily discouraged and reaches out for a quick, unilateral solution to the defense problem automatically finds himself drawing apart from friends, and from other free men.

"He may have a quick solution, and it may provide security for the United States right now. But it will not provide security for us for the next ten years, or the next 50 years.

"The United States must invest in long-range security at the same time it provides immediate preparedness."

Blasts Taft-Hoover

Gen. Bradley blasted such prominent Republicans as Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio and ex-President Hoover, both of whom are opposing large ground forces in Europe, when he remarked:

"The present armchair grasp of reliance on sea power and air power, to the obvious belittlement of land power, falls into the pattern of a quick solution.

"Such a concept may provide some short-range security for the United States. And it would seem to provide an escape from the grim realities of fighting a war in foxholes.

"Its greatest fallacy is that it abandons our friends to being overrun on the ground. As good as the easy principle may sound to us, it rings terribly counterfeit to any free man in Europe.

"The other nations did not join the North Atlantic treaty as a liberation pact. They joined with us in a collective defense bargain."

Gen. Bradley warned that "prevention of war is the ideal security capability—and that can come only through adequate preparedness."

PIN COUGH

GAFFNEY, S. C.—(INS)—Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Smith know that more things than a cold, flu, pneumonia and whooping cough can cause a youngster to wheeze and cough. Their seven-year-old daughter, Joyce, coughed for several weeks until X-ray examination showed she had swallowed an open safety pin which lodged in her lung.

Live To Be Old By Being Young

PARIS—(INS)—Man can live to be 120 years old . . . provided he doesn't let old age get the better of him.

That's the claim of Dr. Martin Gunspers, a German-born American, who came to Paris to collect more material for his theory from such vital old gentlemen as Pablo Picasso, Henri Matisse and Paul Claudel.

"The point is," Dr. Gunspers says, "that man is old when he begins to act as though he were doing everything for the last time. That happens much too early, because, physiologically, man is made to live 120 years. Therefore, it is important that he should learn to act as though he were doing things for the first time in his life."

To combat old age, Dr. Gunspers recommends two remedies: to continue to learn. As a star example to back up his recommendation, he cites Grandma Moses, who held a painting brush for the first time when she was 68, and is still practicing her art at the age of 89.

Dr. Gunspers has written several books on the problems of old age, one of them entitled "You Are Younger than You Think." In these books he unfolds the "Science of Old Age" are "Geriatrics".

"Geriatrics tries to find the causes preventing man from having a longer old age," Dr. Gunspers explains. "At present, it seems that one of the principal reasons is that man ceases to work his brain when he is about 30 years old. From then on it seems that he has only one goal: to make money."

To propagate, the one-called animal simply divides itself in two.

Few Neat Tricks With Vegetables

For something different by way of a vegetable, pare cucumbers and cut them in quarters lengthwise. Remove seeds and soft centers and cook in boiling water until tender, then drain. Saute the drained cucumbers in butter, and serve with a white sauce to which beaten egg, lemon juice and finely-chopped parsley have been added.

For something toothsome, bake squash and fill the cavity with maple syrup.

To reheat broccoli with an epicurean touch, beat an eggwhite and add mayonnaise. Spread mixture over broccoli and broil. If the refrigerator yields left-over vegetables, place in casserole and warm, topped with a cheese sauce.

To add pep to green beans, add a small clove of garlic when cooking. Adding teaspoon cream to ¼ cup butter when seasoning vegetables makes all the difference.

New Quarters Being Opened

Lawrence Farm Bureau Announces Two-Day Program

A two-day "open house' program, marking the formal opening of Lawrence Farm Bureau Cooperative Association's new, enlarged facilities in the Seventh Ward, will be held Friday and Saturday at the new display room and warehouse, 2 South Lafayette street.

Visitors will be received tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., while Saturday's program will begin at 8 a.m. and close at 5 p.m. Special entertainment will be provided tomorrow evening and light refreshments will be served both days.

Dedication of the new quarters will take place exactly 35 months since Lawrence Farm Bureau first opened its doors. Back on April 16, 1948, the infant cooperative, 27th in the list of 31 similar organizations, began operation at 422 Sampson street, New Castle, along Route 422.

Shortly thereafter the association began to experience "growing pains" and last year the board recommended a boost in capital stock from $50,000 to $250,000 to provide for much-needed expansion. The recommendation was approved by the membership at the last annual meeting.

The new building, 40 feet by 180 feet, with an "L-shaped" wing, 40 feet by 50 feet, is one of which the farmer members of the organization can well be proud.

Serving with President Thompson on the Lawrence board of directors are the following area farmers, elected by the co-op members: Wayne Kennedy, New Galilee, R. D. 1; George Dean, Jr., New Castle, R. D. 6; Fred E. Martin, Edenburg, R. D. 1; T. Given Shaw, Volant, R. D. 2; J. Dale Whiting, New Bedford; J. W. McClenahan, New Wilmington, R. D. 1; W. B. Wallace, Enon Valley, R. D. 1; and C. R. Martin, Slippery Rock, R. D. 3.

Friday Services At Temple Israel

Regular Sabbath day services at Temple Israel will be conducted Friday evening, March 16, at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Iwan J. Gruen, spiritual leader, will conduct the service.

WATCHMEN

OSNABRUECK, British Zone of Germany, (INS)—British occupation authorities, following the lead of the American and French groups, have instituted a training course for semi-military "watchmen" to replace British tommies now guarding British military installations.

DIVORCEE'S NAME

"I am divorced and have a court order to use my maiden name, which I have been doing. Now I am remarrying and would like to know whether I should use my maiden name or my ex-husband's name on my announcements. Also tell me how my announcements should read."

Answer: Since your divorce orders gave you the right to resume your maiden name and since you are now using it, you should do so on your wedding announcements. It is always preferable, for a divorcee to continue to use her ex-husband's surname, combining it with her own maiden surname, for example: Mrs. Smith Brown.

Your announcements, inasmuch as you are both mature, should read:

Miss Mary Smith
and
Mr. James Porter have the honour to announce their marriage on Saturday (date)
at (city)

Question: My mother is a widow and would like to know the proper way to word my wedding invitations. Should she use, for example: "Mrs. John Smith requests the honour" or "Mrs. Mary Smith"?

Answer: A widow always retains her deceased husband's name until her own death or remarriage. Your mother should, therefore, say: "Mrs. John Smith requests th honour of your presence."

Question: My mother-in-lad lost her wedding ring. For some time she has been talking about replacing it but never has done so. Her birthday is coming soon. Do you think it would be proper for my husband and me to buy her one as a gift.

It takes an object about one-twentieth of a second to drop one-half inch.

Elliott Roosevelt To Be Married Today

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 15.—(INS)—Elliott Roosevelt and Mrs. Minnewa Bell Ross will be married—each for the fourth time—today at the heiress' Miami Beach home.

The 40-year-old bride's most recent mother-in-law, Mrs. Rex. L. Ross, Sr., will be among the few guests invited to attend the brief ceremonies on Sunset Island.

The bride, daughter of a millionaire west coast realtor, was granted a divorce last Monday from Dr. Rex. L. Ross, Jr., a socialite physician in Westwood, Calif.

More Teen-Age Drug Addicts Being Treated

By SAM FOGG
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 15—The federal government is caring today for almost 70 times as many teen-age drug addicts than it did two years ago—kids who paid from $6 to $15 a day for their narcotics.

This was disclosed by Dr. H. J. Anslinger, commissioner of the U. S. bureau of narcotics, in testimony before a house appropriations subcommittee.

Anslinger reported that while only three addicts under 21 were being treated at the government's hospital at Lexington, Ky., two years ago, there are now 200 undergoing treatment.

Worst Centers

The narcotics enforcement chief cited New York and Chicago as the worst centers of drug-peddling among teen-agers. He described most of the victims as "young hoodlums" and said that "the high school victim is an exception" among the government's patients.

Anslinger said the total number of under-21 patients at Lexington in 1949 and 1950 was 283.

Of that number, 158 came from New York, 88 from Illinois, 31 from New Jersey, 21 from the District of Columbia, 19 from Missouri, 15 from California and the remainder from 16 other states.

He said that of the 200 now undergoing treatment, about half are from New York and half from Chicago.

Anslinger strongly advocated that the federal and state governments pass legislation imposing heavier penalties on drug peddlers as the best means to halt the trafficking among teen-agers.

He declared that the spread of heroin addiction among the youth in Chicago and New York "seems to have been an epidemic".

The commissioner praised Los Angeles for its recent employment of 38 men on its narcotics squad.

Anslinger said:

"It is the only city in the country which has taken the initiative and has gone out and got a good narcotics squad."

It is estimated that 160,000,000 tons of salt are added to the oceans every year by the rivers.

Down Thru The Ages....

YOGOURT

THE HEALTH GIVING FOOD THAT PROMOTES VIGOROUS VITALITY...

MAKES YOU FEEL BETTER...LOOK BETTER

For centuries the health-giving benefits of Yogourt have been known to the peoples of the Balkans and Southern Asia. Modern authorities attribute the vigor, virility and vitality of these people to their daily diet—an important part of which is a cultured milk . . . Yogourt.

WHAT YOGOURT IS: Yogourt is a snow white cultured milk product of custard-like consistency that you eat with a spoon, stir and drink, or use in sour cream cookery. Prepared by fermenting homogenized fresh whole milk with Yogourt culture, which consists of several types of desirable, friendly bacteria, Yogourt is now widely recognized for its health promoting ability to pre-digest milk proteins and to overcome gastric disturbances by preventing the growth of harmful bacteria which so often cause intestinal disorders.

You'll like its CLEAN FRESH TASTE. Yogourt is refreshingly mild and creamy, with a delightful tang. You will enjoy it plain, with fresh or frozen fruits, on pancakes or blintzes. Yogourt is delicious as a salad dressing for potato salad, or on fresh tossed vegetables. Unexcelled for baking and cooking—it gives zest and variety to your menus.

OFF THE BEAM

The fish and game commissions in any state where the sportsmen are as highly organized as they are here in Pennsylvania, often assume the role of scapegoats. They take the rap for any action which the clubs or some of their members may fancy as having gone awry.

Regardless of what the action may be, when it relates to the problem of either game or fish management, it never meets with the 100 per cent approval of the sportsmen.

When rulings concerning the management of our deer herd emante from the game commission, as they should, that body is at once commended and condemned, depending on which side of the fence you chance to be sitting.

When the fish commission ruled that fishermen be barred from all streams stocked with trout for a full month prior to the opening of the trout season, many fishermen howled to high heaven about unequal rights.

Obviously, there are clubs, and individuals too, who feel that they are entitled to special favors. The reasons which they entertain are frequently highly unreasonable. For example, if a commissioner is appointed from a certain county, some of the organized sportsmen of that county immediately consider it in effect to getting a foot inside the official door. For some mysterious reason they consider themselves nearer the charmed circle of the chosen few.

Numerous clubs throughout the commonwealth considered last fall's two-day antlerless deer season held prior to the opening of the regular buck season as a mistake. Incidentally, just as many were in favor of the plan. The purpose was to thin out the number of does and curtail prospective offspring because of the insufficient amount of natural food to support them. At the same time it effectively save the life of many a buck; an arrangement highly discountenanced by many a hunter.

The two-day anterless deer season put the bucks on the alert. The shooting caused them to restlessly move about, and even desert areas which they had used for years. Indeed, many of them became so wary that many a hunter who expected to pot his quarry a few minutes after the season's debut was doomed to disappointment. We will desist from going into the ethical implications envolving the bagging of a buck even as the new season is ushered in, but does it require any of those traits which one expects a sportsman to display?

There is a growing tendency on the part of many license holders to "tell off" the commission when they consider that it is at fault for legislation not meeting with their (the hunter's) approval. Many self-styled experts are forever criticizing although they may not know a tropism from a ganoid. They still believe that all that is necessary is the employment of a little old-fashioned horse sense; not realizing, perhaps, that the horse may be still hitched to the shay.

A fish or a game commission is empowered to act upon measures or promote legislation calculated to benefit the greatest number of license holders consistent with good conservation practices. In the consideration of any important fish and game problem the commissions are backed by the findings of a highly trained corps of technical experts who have spent months, probably years, studying the problem. Incidentally, we have specialists employed in our state who are nationally recognized as tops in their specialties.

In no other field do we have so many laymen trying to advise experts. The commissions are literally hamstrung even before they get started. The accomplishments for which Pennsylvania gained world wide fame were achieved before every Tom, Dick and Harry was "trying to get into the act," as Jimmy Durante would have it.

PLAN CELEBRATION

HARRISBURG, Mar. 15.—(INS)—An appropriation of $100,000 to celebrate the 175th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence is called for today in a bill before the House Appropriations committee.

The measure, sponsored by Majority Leader Charles C. Smith, provides for establishment of a commission to handle the celebration at Philadelphia.

Smith proposes that leading dignataries throughout the nation topped by President Truman be invited to the ceremonies.

Railroad Says Rate Increase Granted Is Very Inadequate

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 15. — (INS)—The Pennsylvania Railroad says a two to four per cent interim freight rate increase granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission is "very disappointing and inadequate." A spokesman for the carrier declared the freight rate boost falls "far short of giving the railroads" drastically needed revenues.

The PRR spokesman said the increase, estimated to boost the nation's freight bill by 200-million dollars a year, will not "meet the increased costs the railroads have had to bear and are bearing on everything used in maintaining service."

The carrier contended that wages and material price levels have "more than doubled" since 1940, but freight rates have jumped "only 57 per cent."

"The railroads, in fairness," the PRR spokesman said, "can't be expected to spend hundreds of millions of dollars for new equipment and other improvemetns unless they are able adequately to meet their costs and maintain their financial and economic soundnes."

The PRR "strongly urged" the ICC "in the public interest to give prompt consideration to further urgently needed freight rate increases." The carriers had requested a six per cent boost.

Farm Roundup

Crop Season Is About Normal

Survey Shows Crop Season Is Opening Up About Normal

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (INS)—The weather—always an unknown quantity in farming—looks like it is going to play ball with farmers' plans to produce a record-shattering volume of crops for the mobilization effort this year.

The agriculture department survey of growing conditions, issued late yesterday, shows that the 1951 crop season in general is "opening up about normal".

If the weather stays normal and continues that way throughout the growing season, agriculture officials say that the nation will be supplied with enough of the essential foods and fibers to keep the wolf from the door if war comes.

But, these officials point out, if the weather comes a cropper, strict consumption controls probably will become necessary later in the year.

As of now, however, the agriculture department is extremely happy with farmers that spring is coming so well in most sections.

The agriculture department reports that grain markets turned firmer during the first week in March and prices regained a good part of the loss of the previous week.

Officials say the upturn in the market resulted in part from the smaller receipts following price declines during the last half of February. Unusually large exports of wheat and fairly large exports of corn, barley and grain sorghums, together with an improvement in domestic demand also were reported as strengthening influences.

Wheat prices advanced five cents or more a bushel at the leading markets, corn was up three to four cents and oats up about three cents a bushel, compared with the week before.

The federal crop reporting board says that hens are getting back on the beam. The board reports that farm poultry flocks returned to a record rate of lay in February after falling off the pace in January.

Farm flocks laid five million, 203 million eggs in February, about 203 million eggs more than the rate set in January.

The board at the same time says that milk production during February was down two per cent from the record production of a year ago, but still the largest total for that month at 8.5 billion pounds.

Mothers Gather At Sunny Avenue

Members of the Sunny Avenue Mother's club met Wednesday evening at the Sunny avenue school, with 53 mothers in attendance. Through the work of the various projects since the organization of the club, a sound projector has been purchased for the school to use in visual education. Delbert McEwen demonstrated the machine to the members during the evening.

Mrs. Fred Horchler conducted the business meeting, with plans completed for a round, square and polk dance to be held April 21 in the Union high school. Delbert McEwen is chairman of the event, and several committees were appointed.

Mrs. Sarah Measel presented an interesting display of uses for plastic in the home for the evening's program. A nominating committee was named by Mrs. Horchler, with the group to present a slate of officers at the next meeting. Mrs. Lannigan is chairman of the group, with others including Mrs. Catherine McConnell, Mrs. Hudson, Miss Mary Tabisz and Mrs. Joseph Mehalik.

Dainty refreshments were served later in the evening, with plans made to meet April 11 at the school.

Skid Causes Crash On Ellwood Highway

Francis J. Fehrenback, 55, of R. D. 1, and Louise Favorite, 30, also R. D. 1, operated motor cars which were involved in an accident at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday on the Ellwood City-New Castle road, three miles from New Castle.

Fehrenbach's car went into a skid, crossed the highway and struck the auto driven by Miss Favorite.

The cars were going in opposite directions.

The first ice boat was built in the United States by Oliver Booth at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1780.

JESUS FACES HIS DESTINY

HE RESIGNS HIMSELF TO HIS FATHER'S WILL

Scripture—Mark 14.

Jesus in Gethsemane

Jesus said, "Not what I will, but what Thou wilt."—Mark 14:36.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

It is always with deep sadness that we read this chapter of St. Mark. We have been studying the Lord's life, and our love and adoration have grown with the study. Now we see Him in agony, betrayed by one who should have loved and protected Him, and led away to be tried, cruelty treated, mocked, denied and deserted by His best friends.

In the home of one Simon, at Bethany, Jesus sat with His disciples. A woman entered holding an alabaster box filled with rare and expensive ointment. She approached the Master, broke the box, and poured the contents on Jesus' head.

The disciples were shocked at such waste (as they thought). The ointment should have been sold and the money given to the poor.

Jesus, knowing how short His life on earth would be, said, no. "Let her alone; why trouble ye her? she hath wrought a good work on Me. For ye have the poor with you always, and whensoever ye will ye may do them good but Me ye have not always.

"She hath done what she could; she is aforehand to anoint My body to the burying."

Now Judas Iscariot, one of the Twelve, went to the chief priests and offered to betray Jesus to them for a certain sum of money. The priests were well pleased, but they didn't want to take Him during Passover, as they feared the peoples' anger.

The disciples asked the Lord where they would hold the Passover. He told two of them to go into the city and follow a man they would see carrying a pitcher of water. They were to follow him and say to the master of the house, "The Master saith, Where is the guest chamber where I shall eat the Passover with My disciples?"

He would show them a large upper room all prepared, and there they should make ready. It all occurred as Jesus said, and there the Master and the Twelve gathered.

As they sat eating, Jesus said, "Verily I say unto you, one of you which eateth with Me shall betray Me."

The Twelve became sorrowful, asking one another, "It it I?" Jesus took bread, blessed and broke it, and gave it to them, saying, "Take, eat: this is My body".

"And He took the cup, and when He had given thanks, He gave it to them; and they all drank of it.

"And He said unto them. This is My blood of the new testament, which is shed for many."

After singing a hymn they went out, and Jesus, taking with Him Peter, James and John, went to the Mount of Olives. He told them some of them might be offended becaused of Him that night, but Peter was especially fervent in his protestations that never would be offended with his Master, but would go to his death with or for Him.

Jesus answered that that very night, before the cock crew twice Peter would deny Him.

They came to Gethsemane, and Jesus asked the three to sit and watch while He prayer, for He was exceedingly sorrowful. He threw Himself on the ground and begged His Father in Heaven, that if it were possible this bitter suffering which He foresaw, should pass from Him: "Nevertheless not what I will, but what Thou wilt."

Returning to His friends, He found them asleep, and He said, sadly, "Couldst thou not watch one hour?"

Again Jesus went and prayer, returning to find them asleep again. A third time Jesus prayed and resigned Himself to God's will, and when He came to His friends He told them, "Rise up and let us go, lo, he that betrayeth Me is at hand."

Immediately they were surrounded by chief priests and soldiers, and Judas went to His Master and kissed Him—not through love, but to show His enemies that He was the man they sought.

Did the disciples defend Him? Did they go with Him when He was led away? One, indeed, drew a sword and cut off an ear of a servant of the high priest, for which Jesus reproved him. Then all fled but Peter, who followed his Master at a distance.

Jesus was brought before the council of the Sanhedrin, and false witnesses testified against Him, but they didn't agree in their testimony. Jesus own answer to the chief priest condemned Him, for He said He was "the Son of Man" which was considered blasphemy.

Someone recognized Peter as a companion of Jesus, but he denied it three times, only to hear a cock crow twice. Realizing that he had done what Jesus had foretold, Peter went away weeping.

Hunt Man For Triple Slaying

Estranged Wife, Her Father And Brother-In-Law Slain

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 15.—(INS)—State police combined heavily wooded areas of nearby Ashley today for a wounded Korean war veteran who shot and killed his estranged wife, her father and her brother-in-law.

The fugitive, Edward Rovinsky, 25, fled into the woods after the triple killing still armed with a rifle and a pistol. Police said he was apparently crazed by the rift with his wife.

Searchers took up an all-night vigil on the outskirts of Ashley, using ten cars equipped with powerful searchlights to patrol bordering roads. The hunt went on amid heavy snow and rain.

Police began forming a posse of their own men at 7:30 a.m. to "beat every inch of the woods" for the fugitive.

Three Victims

The victims were identified as Mrs. Margaret Rovinsky, 22, and her father, Andrew Stuka, 55, both of Ashley, and George Tomko, 30, of Wilkes-Barre, the brother-in-law.

Police said Rovinsky opened fire at point-blank range at a car bearing the trio and driven by Anthony Kulyeshie, 44, as the vehicle was passing a school at 2 p.m. yesterday.

Home-going school children screamed and fled in panic as the first bullet nicked Kulyeshie in the right ear. The car smashed into the wall of the school and the killer continued firing, seven shots in all.

Witnesses ran up to find Mrs. Rovinsky dead in the back seat, Tomko's body was sprawled beside the car. Stuka had been cut down by a bullet while fleeing toward the rear of the schoolhouse.

Rovinsky fled on foot into a rugged, sparsely settled section a mile from the murder scene. A navy veteran home from Korea on sick leave, he was injured in the right leg in the explosion of a minesweeper.

Detective Sgt. Charles Hartman of the state police said the Rovinskys had separated recently, but had arranged a meeting to attempt a reconciliation.

At the time of the shooting, Stuka and his daughter were being driven on an errand by Kulyeshie and Tomko.

How Comrade Doakes-Ski Pays Taxes In Russia

By THOMAS J. FOLEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Income Taxpayer, while you sweated in a last minute effort to juggle those deductions and exemptions, consider the plight of Mr. Joe Doakes-Ski, comrade, Soviet Union.

A House Appropriations subcommittee released testimony made by Treasury Secretary Snyder in which he described taxation in the Soviet Union.

Snyder said the picture was pieced together from information released to the public by the Soviet government.

60 Per Cent Sales Tax

In the first place, about 60 per cent of Russia's ruble revenue comes from a turn-over tax, which is just a fancy name for a national sales tax.

Nearly 70 per cent of these sales tax receipts comes from food and another 13 per cent from clothes. So its obvious the tax is rough on friend Oakes-Ski.

Not only that, but while Americans worry about a two per cent sales tax becoming a three per cent levy, Russians pay sales taxes that range from 30 per cent of the selling price of a suit to 90 per cent of the cost of a fifth of vodka.

Pays Income Tax Too

Comrade Doakes-Ski pays an income tax, too. If he lives in the city and makes the average wage of 8,000 rubles, he pays a tax of 512 rubles.

The tax is graduated, like ours, but only up to the 12,000-rubble level. Secretary Snyder said salaries above that level are not uncommon.

Peasants and farmers pay a much stiffer personal [illegible] than their city cousins. That's because the collective make on collective farms is not taxed. And also because the farmer grows most of his own food—and thus avoids much of the sales tax.

Besides the income and sales taxes, Doakes-Ski kicks in three or four weeks' salary each year to buy government bonds. Snyder said that these purchases are "supposed to be voluntary" but that "strong social pressures are brought to bear" to buy bonds.

Russia is not without its withholding tax. Doakes-Ski's boss takes from 3.7 to 10.7 per cent of the payroll to pay for government unemployment compensation, accident insurance and the like.

Cross 38th Parallel South Korea Defense Minister Urges

PUSAN, Korea, March 15—(INS)—South Korea's Defense Minister Shin Sung Mo declared today "it is the clear mission and duty" of the United Nations forces to cross the 38th parallel and continue their advance right up to the Korean-Manchurian border.

In the Korean Republic's emergency capital of Pusan, the cabinet official said that a UN "victory would become a failure if the invaders are allowed sanctuary north of the 38th."

In that case, he added, the Communist forces would "launch another attack whenever they choose to do so."

The defense minister said the Korean people would "willingly die" to prevent a re-division of their country at parallel 38.

Sung Mo thus echoed views previously expressed by South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

STARTING EARLY

The neighbors were shocked when they heard about it. And there was nothing in the books recommending it. But the Wrights found that showers for their four-months-old Jimmy worked out very well.

Bill Wright thought it would be interesting to see how his infant son would like a shower. Holding the baby securely, he started with a very light spray. Before long Jimmy was delighted with his showed-time. No matter how hard the spray came, he made sounds of satisfaction. After a while, he even like to have the shower on his face, and Mother doesn't hesitate to let the water spray on him in this way. And his dad "got a kinck" out of their time together during bathing.

In and of itself, this father-and-son shower isn't too important. But it's one of the experiences during infancy that sets too important. But it's one of the experiences during infancy that sets the stage for a fine, secure relationship between parents and children. Too often the youngest are left to themselves in crib or playpen. Some of this is good, but every growing child needs the physical closeness to mother and father that comes with nursing, with rocking, with active play or with something like the Wrights' shower.

Earl J. Watt Post Legion Auxiliary Meets In Bessemer

The March meeting of the Earl J. Watt, Unit 638, American Legion Auxiliary, was held in the Legion Home, Bessemer, Monday evening. The meeting was opened with the singing of "America."

Mrs. Marian Shaffer, Americanism chairman, reported that a girl from the Mt. Jackson high school would be selected to represent the community at the Keystone Girls' Camp this summer.

Plans are under way for a Ward Party at Deshon hospital to be held Wednesday, April 18. Prizes will include toilet articles, white socks, stationery, candy and cigarettes.

Mrs. Hugh Marshall was elected delegate to the Tri-County Council meeting at West Middlesex on March 29. She will present there the Unit's check for the Council Child Welfare shower.

A check in the amount of $250 was presented by the Unit to their Legion Post as a birthday gift. The money is to be added to the Legion Home fund. The building is progressing rapidly and soon will be something of which every member and every citizen in the community can be proud.

In The Open

There's a certain tall dead snag in a certain piece of hardwood timber in my hiking territory which for the past few seasons has been the chosen nesting site of a pair of great horned owls. The snag has broken off at the top, leaving a sizable depression just right as a nursery for the lord high executioner of the timberland. The owls are said to be in residence again this year, so when the weekend came up with a sunny afternoon I headed for that distant woodland, hoping for a good look at the big hooters who are rapidly disappearing from the American scene, thanks to the zealousness of sportsmen who insist on meddling with the natural balances of the outdoors.

The land owner went along to point out the nest tree. We followed a wagon trace by the edge of a ravine populated with stout young hickory and then struck into the timberland, which lay open to the sun on a long sloping rise. There were some grand old beech trees, pockmarked with shot scars where a squirrel had been the target. A good stand of tall straight tulip popular covered the upper reaches of the hillside.

Chain Saws At Work

Chain saws had been at work in the adjoining woods to our left. The fresh-cut stumps and the tangle of topped-out branches had turned this area into what my friend described graphically as a "boar's nest." Wild grape has moved in, and there were several gloomy tepees of this climber along our pathway.

As we moved slowly through the woods I could hear the piercing music of the meadowlarks, back from their Winter sojourn in the Carolinas. They seemed to be distributed about one bird to every fifty stubble acres, and they made the welkin ring with their ever-welcome "Spring o' the year!" Bluebirds were warbling in a distant fencerow, but their alto was drowned out by the vigorous soprano of the yellow-breasted larks.

Since the big horned owl is a wild creature, with wonderfully acute hearing, we tried to move with less noise as we closed in on the tall dead snag. But even the small snapping of a twig underfoot can be heard by these night prowlers at an unbelievable distance. The only hope in stalking the big hooter is to find the sitting bird on the nest, or to spy out the sleeping mate, dozing the daylight hours away hunched against the side of a tree or hidden in a dense grape tangle.

We made a silent stalk for the last several yards, but saw no sign of the big birds about the snag. The glasses revealed a bit of rabbit fur caught in the bark at the edge of the nest, and we noted some shreds of rabbit fur at the base of the tree. While I stood back to watch, my companion belabored the snag with a heavy wood chunk but raised no sign of an occupant overhead.

Wild Grape Abounds

Wild grape had run a halyard up this tall spar and by vigorous pulling the whole snag swayed dangerously. When this maneuver failed to flush out a sitting bird we knew that there was no one at home. I think that the sawyers felling the big trees just across the fence had probably scared off the wary owls. Some dark and foggy day soon I hope to go back and spend an hour or so near the snag in hopes of getting a good look at the great birds about their domestic endeavors.

We strolled for an hour in the open woods, disturbing the peace and quiet of a flock of silly sheep. An upland spring offered a delicious draught of sparkling sandstone water. There were some tall sassafras trees on the hillside, among the largest I have seen, and one lone hackberry, with its typical warty bark.

There was a chill in the air despite the best efforts of the sun, and the light breeze kept driving that chill through my hiking jacket. We circled down through the trees and out to the open edgings. A pair of hairy woodpeckers flew out ahead, and shortly after we routed out a pair of the rarer red-bellied woodpeckers which are much more common farther south.

As if to prove the adage that all things happen in cycles of threes, while we were watching the red-bellied citizens a lone pileated woodpecker flew across the valley, his white wing linings flashing, and settled in the heart of the timberland we had just vacated. This big fellow, about as large as a crow, has staged a wonderful comeback here-abouts. Nearly every time I get off the more beaten trails I see or hear one of these odd birds. Let's hope the trigger happy gentry remember they are on the protected list.

New Indian Village Has Modern Design

THE DALLES, Ore.—(INS)—The new Indian village on the Columbia River at Celilo Falls is quite a contrast to the unsightly shacks where Indians lived for decades at their treaty-protected salmon fishing grounds.

The government spent about $146,000 for ten new dwellings to replace the now vanished unsanitary shacks which made up the old village near The Dalles.

The settlement has a water supply and lighted streets for the first time plus drying sheds for curing salmon speared and netted from the roaring Columbia rapids.

Squaws, who do 95 per cent of the work, are pleased with the community washing machines, electric lights in their homes and other household conveniences.

Still present nearby, however, are ramshackle shacks occupied during the fishing season by some 800 visiting Yakima, Umatilla and other Pacific Northwest Indian tribes.

The old "Long House" of 80-year-old Chief Tommy Thompson of the Celilo Indians is in the center of the new village. The unpainted wooden structure is the scene of Indian festivals including a four-day salmon feast in the spring.

The small band of Celilo Indians who live at the site all year, are self-supporting and earn their livelihood from salmon fishing.

The salmon catch was once as high as $100,000 daily but has fallen off in recent years.

An 1855 federal treaty protects the immemorial fishing site.

It's at times like this when you'll thank your lucky stars for a well stocked canned meat "genie shelf." These may be served as they are or combined with other foods, according to your whim.

Korea Monotonous Place For American Soldiers

By FRANK CONNIFF
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ON THE CENTRAL FRONT, March 15.—From the standpoint of the average American soldier, there are few places in the world less suitable for fighting a war than Korea.

No one yet has made it amply clear how desolate the business of killing can become in a theater as primitive as this one. The difficulties with the terrain and weather have been cited and the stealth and savagery of the enemy recognized. But these occupational hazards by no means complete the list of soldiers' beefs against Korea.

No Place For Breather

One of the main knocks is the fact that there is almost no place to go for a breather from the war short of Japan. A leave or a pass can be practically meaningless in Korea. There are no rear area towns offering entertainment. A soldier on a short leave might as well stay with his outfit—and he frequently does.

There is no Paris or Rome or even a beat-up German town to which he can junket for a change of pace. There is little fraternization with Korean feminity so the average GI goes month after month without the semblance of a date.

There are thousands of officers and men in Korea who arrived here last July and still haven't left the country even once. They've had none of the usual "breaks" which punctuate the military life. Week after week and month after month they have pigged it under primitive conditions which would sap the morale of any but the strongest soldiers.

"R" And "R" Program

In recent weeks, the Army has souped up its "R" and "R" program—rest and recuperatipn—and it has alleviated the situation to some extent. Picked officers and men are flown to Japan for five-day vacations with two additional days allowed for traveling time.

But the Army realizes that the "R" and "R" schedule is at best a token gesture. One man out of every hundred gets a whack at the vacations. simple mathematics indicate it would take two years to cut everybody in at the present rate.

So the bulk of the Army, both in the line and in the rear, goes bleakly about its business with little variation of the monotonous routine. A card game at night or a schmoozing session around the stove are just about the high spots of our Korean social life.

Correspondents covering the war are as prone to the meemies as the soldiers. But they are able to whisk back to Tokyo at regular intervals and thus break the pattern. Most offices try to rotate their reporters back to Japan every five or six weeks. I once did a 10-week stretch without interruption and was a candidate for the loony bin at the end.

Farm Housing Study Is Made

Results Of Survey Are Made Public

By AL SPIVAK
I. N. S. Farm Editor

HARRISBURG, March 15.—A study of farm housing in Pennsylvania has reflected a predominance of large, old frame structures considered unsuited for modern needs.

"The need is not one of building additions," researchers report, "but rather of changes within the house to make more effective use of existing space and at the same time to provide flexibility to meet changing family needs."

Housing Data Compiled

The housing data was compiled by the schools of agriculture and home economics at Pennsylvania State college.

The report was written by Penn State faculty members Francene L. Nolan, Ruth R. Honey and Gladys Wasmuth.

Records were obtained from families on 438 representative owner-operated farms in 53 counties.

All the major types of farming areas were represented although dairying was listed as the major enterprise of 69 per cent of the families.

"The absence of central heat in many of these homes was one of the factors to be considered in planning for more effective use of rooms," the researchers noted.

Less Than Half Had Furnace

"Slightly less than half of the homes had a furnace, but nearly all the families preferred to have them," according to the report. "Over half of the families used wood-coal ranges and intended to use them indefinitely."

It was found that most families had no desire for additional rooms.

"Families generally preferred to serve weekday meals in the kitchen," the researchers said. "However, approximately three-fourths of the families wanted to serve company meals in the dining room."

Families required space for preparation and storage of canned food. This method of food preservation was the most used although some families used the freezing process.

A third of the families expressed a need for additional storage space for dishes, utensils, foodstuffs and clothing.

Need Additional Closets

The need for additional closets within present home designs was cited as "a major remodeling problem." There were no clothes closets in 21 per cent of the houses studied.

"Although almost half of the families interviewed did not have bathrooms, only 10 families said they wanted this convenience when asked if they wanted an additional room," said the authors.

"This number may be low," they added, "since many families may not consider the future installation of plumbing in existing space as the addition of a room."

The kitchen was the center of household activities in practically all the houses examined. However, "all but six families had rooms which provided places for family members to read, relax, visit and entertain friends".

"The majority of these Pennsylvania farm houses were built at the time when raw materials and labor were cheap," the authors commented. "Their age and apparent condition indicate that they were soundly constructed and will continue to be used for a long time. They are well worth remodeling."

Air Reserve Officers Graduating From Colleges To Be Called

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(INS)—The air force announced today that all reserve officers graduating from college this year will be ordered to active duty as second lieutenants within 90 to 120 days after graduation.

The number was estimated at 8,100, including those who graduated in January and February and the larger number who will graduate in May and June.

The call up affects students who are members of the Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps, which are maintained in colleges throughout the country.

The air force said that all of the graduates who can qualify will be given an opportunity to take further flying training. Those who prove ineligible for military service will be exempted after being called up.

House Committee Would Give Truman Deferment Powers

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (INS)—The House Armed Services Committee voted today to give President Truman authority to defer from the draft an unlimited number of students, and essential workers in industry and agriculture.

The committee shunted aside the President request for authority to defer specifically 75,000 students annually and voted instead to continue the broad power he holds under the existing draft law to make individual deferments.

Chairman Vinson (D) Ga., termed his committee's action "more liberal" than the administration provision, which the Senate adopted.

The existing provision, which the committee voted to continue, is not confined to students. It authorizes the President to defer, on an individual basis, workers in essential industries and in agriculture and those "whose activity in study, research, or medical, scientific or other endeavors is found to be necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest."

Humane Society Plans To Raise Fund For Shelter

What to do with stray dogs and cats has been a problem in many families for years. Let a stray pup curl up on the back porch and Junior immediately wants to adopt him.

Realizing the problem, the Lawrence county Humane society has made plans to erect an animal shelter in New Castle where strays can be taken until such time as disposition is made of them.

It takes money to build animal shelters and the society has a plan whereby at least part of the money can be procured.

On April 6, the Humane society will hold an "almost new auction sale" in the rooms of the Morgan Motor company on North Jefferson street.

A well known auctioneer will be on hand to cry the sale but there will have to be something to sell.

Anyone having any clothing, household goods, toys or furniture in reasonably good condition is asked to donate them to the cause. Arrangements have been made to pick up the donations and those interested are asked to call 2917. A truck will call and get whatever is contributed.

Cub Round Table At Clen-Moore School

Cub leaders' round table for New Castle's Kuskuski district met last night at Clen-Moore school.

Opening ceremonies and introductions were performed by Emery Back, cubmaster of pack 37, and A. L. Wilson served as district commissioner.

Hi Lamphier then spoke in detail concerning the cub leaders' training course and the cubs, following the talk, viewed the film, "The Cubbing Achievement Program".

J. C. Hildebrand, Lawrence county scout executive, then acted as chairman of an "information please" panel which consisted of Mrs. Mae Otto, Mrs. Emery Back, Ray Zeigler, N. J. McCluskey, H. W. Cummings and Emery Back.

The program committee for the next cub leaders' round table meeting, scheduled for the month of May, consists of H. W. Cummings, Emery Back and Mrs. Mildred Scanlon.

King Farouk To Be Married In Coming Summer

CAIRO, March 15.—(INS)—An Egyptian government official said today that King Farouk of Egypt definitely will be married this summer to pretty 18-year-old Narriman Sadek.

Cabinet press officer Thabet Pasha said the marriage will take place at a date to be announced later and that the ceremony will be simple in accordance with Moslem traditions.

The press counselor denied reports that the king and Miss Sadek already have been married secretly.

Connecticut derived its name from the Indian word, "Quonectecut", meaning long river.

ALLIED TROOPS ADVANCE WITHOUT OPPOSITION

KOREA—Allied troops advanced almost unopposed along a 100-mile front yesterday and today, reoccupying war-ruined Seoul and closed in on other former centers of Communist power in a general drive toward the 38th parallel. Local Power Company Employes Help Ohio Crews With Repairs

Four line crews of Pennsylvania Power company were rushed into the area around Youngstown on Wednesday to help in the restoration of electric service to residents of that area. Poles and wire broke under the weight of ice and snow during the storm and caused many home and businesses to be without electricity.

Line crews of Ohio Edison Company were swamped with work and a call was sent out to Penn Power for assistance. Two crews from New Castle and one each from Sharon and Greenville were dispatched to the stricken area. They worked without letup until the situation was under control to the point where Ohio Edison's crews could handle the work alone.

Close Cooperation

This is typical of the close cooperation between neighboring utilities in emergencies. The primary purpose in such cases is to restore electric service in the shortest possible time and nothing is spared to accomplish the goal.

Lending help is not a one-way affair. During the great tornado in the Sharon area in 1947 the Ohio Edison Company sent crews to that district to aid in replacing the many lines and poles torn down during the storm.

Fortunately, during the present storm there were few interruptions of service in the area served by Penn Power and the crews could be spared to help repair the damage in Ohio.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Jimmy Klaer reports that a friend's four-year-old Chihuahua dog has eaten more than 200 packages of chewing gum.

WHAT'S IN HAMBURGER?

HARRISBURG, March 15.—State Sen. Tilghman A. Freed of Lehigh county has asked the senators of Pennsylvania to check up on the butcher shops in their home communities to determine whether the meat being sold for hamburger is in reality horseburger.

Sen. Freed told the senate that he has been informed that horse meat has been marketed in that fashion in Lehigh county.

The oldest recorded continually inhabited community in the United States is Orsibi, Ariz., an Indian village which has been in existence since 1370.

WOULD INCREASE FEES

HARRISBURG, March 15.—Sen. Robert D. Fleming (R) Allegheny county, has introduced a bill providing an increase in the fees of registrars of vital statistics. The fee would become $1 instead of 50 cents, with a minimum of $100 a year to be guaranteed by the state.

'Half Students Of Oxford University Are Mentally Ill'

LONDON, March 15.—(INS)—A London Medical Conference was startled today by a clinical report to the effect that half the students at Oxford University are "mentally ill" and that details of a high suicide rate are being withheld.

The report was given to a conference of doctors and health service officials by Dr. Alfred Torrie, medical director of the National Association for Mental Health.

Torrie said that an investigation conducted by a private doctor showed that the suicide rate at Oxford in 1946 and 1947 was seven times that for non-Oxford men of the same age. He added:

"It is a terrible fact, but because it is so terrible it has not been reported. . . Oxford goes on blindly ignoring the problem."

Dr. A. D. Gardner, professor of medicine at the ancient university, said that Dr. Torrie's charges are "ridiculous."

"The suicide rate among university students all over the country is lamentably high," he said. "But my private information is that Oxford is no worse than anywhere else."

Oxford University consists of 28 separate small colleges with a total "in residence" enrollment of 7,500 under-graduates.

WRECK IN WHICH THREE PERSONS WERE KILLED

GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW PLANT

end of 1952, and may be later, depending upon world conditions and their effect of materials and manpower, according to officials of the company.

The total cost of the dial conversion program will be approximately $2,275,000, as previously stated, of which about $530,000 will be spent on the new two-story and basement building to be constructed on the company-owned site on South Mercer street. The lot has a frontage of 103 feet on South Mercer street, and extends back 160 feet along South street, to Cochran Way. The building will be of fire-resisting brick construction, with limestone trim. The ground surrounding the building will be landscaped.

It will be constructed by Mellon Stuart, Inc., General Contractors. Press C. Dowler is the architect.

In addition to the building, the company plans to spend approximately $1,780,000 for dial central office equipment, including a toll switchboard, $276,000 for new dial telephone and equipment for all local subscribers, and approximately $70,000 for rearrangements and additions to local cable and wire lines, company officials said.

Choate Is Host

Following the groundbreaking exercises, local leaders were guests of Homer D. Choate, District Manager of the company, at a luncheon in The Castleton Hotel.

"This project will provide New Castle with the most modern dial telephone service," Mr. Choate told the gathering.

He pointed out that the new building would be the fifth home of the Telephone Company since it was established here in 1882.

"The first office was established in a third floor room of the National Bank Building at Washington and Mercer streets," he said. "This office was established by the Old Central District and Printing Telegraph Company, the predecessor of The Bell Company in this area.

"This office was outgrown by 1888 and a new switchboard was installed on the second floor of the Clendening Building across the street. It was again transferred in 1892 to the corner of Washington Street and Apple Alley, where it remained until the present office was opened at 31 South Mercer Street in 1904.

Early Growth Was Slow

"Telephone growth here was slow in the beginning. There were only 40 subscribers here in 1890, eight years after the first office was opened. However, by 1895, the figure had reached 100, and by 1900 it was up to 1,000. This number increased to 3,200 in 1910 and 7,500 in 1920.

"By 1930, there were 12,250 telephones here and by the end of the last war, there were 14,750. Growth has been exceedingly heavy since that time, and the present number of telephones served by the New Castle office is 23,512.

132,189 Calls Per Day

"The number of calls handled has also increased from about 22,000 a day in 1911, the first year records are available for, to 132,189 today.

Mr. Longstreth, vice-president and general manager then, stressed the continuing growth of the state-wide telephone system, pointing out that The Bell Company now serves approximately 2,700,000 telephones, as compared to 1,357,000 in 1940.

The company now operates 466 central offices throughout the state, an increase of nine in the last year. It owns 304 buildings and rents another 326.

At the present time, the company has more than 31,000 employees as compared to approximately 17,624 in 1940. Telephone plant in service is now worth nearly $612,000,000 as compared to $342,000,000 in 1940.

Sending Troops To Europe Favored If Europe Fights

WASHINGTON, Mar. 15.—(INS)—An Ohio Congressman said today his constituents overwhelmingly approve sending troops to Europe if the European nations prove they are ready and willing to fight.

Rep. McGregor (R) said 77 per cent of the 3,000 citizens in the 17th Ohio district who returned a questionnaire approved striking a medium between an extreme conservative and liberal foreign policies.

McGregor said only 13 per cent thought the United States "should pull out of Europe and build up a 'Gilbraltar' of military strength in the western hemisphere" as advocated by former President Herbert Hoover.

The Ohio Republican also said 62 per cent of those answering the poll favored some form of Universal Military Service and training for all men reaching the age of 18.

The removal of Dean Acheson as secretary of state was favored by 70 per cent of those answering. And University of Pennsylvania President Harold Stassen headed a list of five prominent Republicans who topped a list of 60 suggested as a successor to Acheson.

Volant Junior Sportsmen Name Officers For Year

Volant Junior Sportsmen have begun activities for the coming season by holding their organization meeting at the school house Friday evening.

Officers were elected, with Alen Newby being chosen president, Harold Shaw, Jr., vice president; Jimmy Houston, secretary, and Charles Shaw, treasurer.

During the meeting plans were made for forming a baseball team for the summer. The club met similar groups throughout the county last summer and was also active in other projects, including birdhouse building and fishing contests. Awards were made in both by adult clubs.

The Volant boys are sponsored by the Lions of Volant in their sports activities.

RED-ABANDONED SEOUL OCCUPIED BY UN

were downed by heavy Red anti-aircraft fire. One jet pilot was killed and a downed Mustang fighter pilot was evacuated by a helicopter.

Hongchon, vital rail-highway center, fell after troops of two American divisions and a Greek brigade clamped a steel noose around the city, crossing the Hongchon river and cutting the lifeline highway to Chungchon.

In the west, South Korean First Division troops entered Seoul unopposed to launch the war's second liberation of Korea's national capital from Red rule. American Third Division GIs followed the South Koreans into the war-ruined metropolis.

Find No Enemy Troops

The U.S. Eighth Army announced in a Thursday night communique that the South Koreans spent the day "screening" the sprawling capital without finding any of the elusive Communist troops inside its wide limits.

Farther east, the bulletin said, other UN forces "continued to advance" beyond the U.S. 25th Division's bulging Bridgehead north of the Han river.

On the ridge-lined central front, the communique related, Greek troops received "harassing fire" west and southwest of Hongchon in Thursday's pre-dawn hours.

Small-Arms Fire

During the early afternoon, enemy small-arms fire was reported in the same area while farther to the east, U.S. First Cavalry Division elements ran into "heavy" Red artillery and small arms fire. Tank-paced first cavalrymen how-river just west of the junction city ever crashed across the Hongchon and circled around its flank to sever the road leading northwest to Chungchon. The latter city is seven miles below Parallel 38.

East and southeast of Hongchon, the Eighth Army announcement recounted, First Marine Division forces encountered shellfire shortly before noon from "an undetermined number" of enemy troops. The leathernecks smashed into this Communist force.

Above Yudong, U.S. Second Division troops battled an estimated 250 Reds, North and northwest of Soksa other American army units "met resistance from an estimated 100 enemy, with hand-to-hand fighting reported," the communique said.

The bulletin listed an additional 1,300 Red casualties inflicted by the UN ground forces on Wednesday, raising to more than 40,000 the enemy's manpower losses in eight days. By official count, an estimated 175,000 Chinese and North Korean troops have been knocked out since the UN offensive began rolling toward Parallel 38 on January 25th.

An armored patrol probed northward Thursday in quest of the new dispositions of some 200,000 surviving Chinese troops who had broken battle contact to back up toward or possibly beyond the parallel.

It was in the area where the Hongchon-Chunchon road was severed that American First Cavalry troopers, accompanied by men of the Greek brigade, had reached within 18 miles of the 38th Paraled by dawn Thursday.

Chunchon and Hongchon lie, respectively, seven and 21 miles below the controversial dividing line between South and North Korea.

To the west, American Third Division troops crossed the lower Han river Thursday and entered Seoul in the wake of South Korean First Division units which had returned to the enemy-abandoned capital late Wednesday.

Senate Probers Charge Perjury To F. Costello

NEW YORK, March 15.—(INS)—The senate crime investigating committee acted today to indict Frank Costello for perjury but recalled him for additional questioning which has already brought the alleged rackets king under the threat of deportation and income tax evasion proceedings.

But in his third appearance before the Kefauver committee the ex-bootlegger may share starring honors with Virginia Hill, former girl friend of the late mobster Buggsy Siegel.

Rudolph Halley, committee counsel, said the mysterious Miss Hill, who is understood to have come secretly to New York, has been summoned to appear before the committee today or as soon as possible.

Her name has been linked frequently with underworld bigshots including Costello and Charles Lucky Luciano, and it was in her home in Beverly Hills, Calif., that Siegel was shot to death in 1947.

The investigating committee said it is recommending that the justice department begin criminal action for perjury against Costello and is turning over all its testimony.

State Capitol

Seeking Job Of State Deputy

Luzerne County Man Wants Job In Agriculture Dept.

HARRISBURG, March 15.—(INS)—A wheelhorse in the Luzerne county Republican organizations, Reymond J. Bartow, is gunning for the role of deputy secretary of public assistance, a post held by Veteran Administrator Robert P. Wray . . . Bartow, who hails from Wilkes-Barre, is the director of the Luzerne county board of assistance and has been associated with Governor Fine's GOP organization for many years . . . Bartow is understood to have sought the $15,000 a year secretary's post but lowered his sights after Fine chose Mrs. Eleanor Evans, of Brookline, to succeed Frank Robbins' . . . Bartow has been boasting openly that he is after Wray's job, according to information at the State Capitol . . . Wray earns $9,000 annually . . . He joined the department's research bureau in 1938 in a minor capacity and three years later was named director . . . He was appointed deputy secretary June 15, 1944 and the following day was named acting secretary succeeding Samuel Y. Ramage . . . He returned to the deputyship when Robbins was appointed secretary in January, 1947.

When the Workmen's Compensation Board sits to review appeals by the Commonwealth and employer-defendants from rulings by referees in the field, it would appear to be the case of leaning a little toward the state's side . . . However, a spur-of-the-moment check of eight cases revealed that while the board sustained such appeals in three instances it spiked five similar pleas . . . The appeals were prompted by orders by referees for the Commonwealth to pay workmen's compensation to individuals who had lost the ability to work due to injury or ailment.

The clock turned back 34 years for Public Utility Commission Chairman John Siggins, Jr., when he attended the ceremony during which ex-Dauphin county Judge Robert E. Woodside was sworn as state attorney general . . . The ceremony in the House of Representatives was about to start when parliamentarian S. Edward Moore spotted Siggins among spectators in the rear of the chamber . . . Moore hurried to Siggins and escorted the 71-year-old PUC chief to seat number 13 . . . It was the seat which Siggins sat in when a member of the House in 1917 . . . Siggins had not forgotten it but assumed others had . . . Moore, whose memory often amazes members, had not forgotten where Siggins had sat even though he was a fledging in parliamentary work during the 1917 meeting . . . Siggins also exchanged courtesies with House minority leader Hiram J. Andrews, of Cambria . . . Andrews was a reporter for the old Philadelphia North American when Siggins was a lawmaker.

The joint State Government Commission after a two year long study of the problem, has recommended that the Commonwealth's constitution be amended to allow differential taxation of forest lands . . . The last legislative attempt to effect such taxation was invalidated by the State Supreme Court because it (1) exempted property which the constitution does not permit the legislature to exempt and (2) it represented an invalid classification . . . Seven times between 1887 and 1935 the legislature tried for reduced or deferred taxes as encouragement to reforestation efforts among farmers and timber owners but each was defeated in tests before the high court.

DAZZLED LIGHT

LONDON, (INS)—Description of a new mercury-vapour trap for night flying insects was given before the Royal Entomological Society. The inventors, amateur naturalists H. S. Robinson and his brother P. M. Robinson, said that observation and experiments led them to conclude that contrary to a widely held belief, moths and other night-flying insects are not attracted by light but are dazzled by it.

U.N. Wants To Go To Paris

NEW YORK, March 15—(INS)—Gentlemen prefer blondes and Paris.

This simple preference for Paris (leave the blondes out of this present high-class discussion, please) is the cause of the present undercover hassel at the United Nations.

The shennenigans could not be more complicated, devious, emotionally involved or hush-hush if they involved a new peace move in Korea or Kashmir.

The Latin American delegates to the United Nations want the next gathering of the General Assembly in the autumn of 1951 to be held in Paris. It is said that all good Norte Americanoes go to Paris when they die. But our Latin American neighbors do not want to wait that long. They want to go now.

Want To Go To Paris

When the present General Assembly voted some time ago to hold the next meeting in Europe, the 21-member Latin American bloc began shilling for Paris at once.

This Latin American campaign didn't make anybody mad, not even the Russians. All the U. N. delegates were in discreet accord that they deserved one more fling and a few more nights out in Paris before having to settle down once and for all in New York, N. Y., U.S.A.

Because the new U. N. headquarters hard by the East river will indubitably be completed by 1952, the boys will have no more excuse for running off to la belle Paree.

So, having decided to hold its bachelor dinner in Paris, the United Nations sat back and placidly began to await an invitation from the French government to assemble there. A mere formality, but a necessary one, this invitation.

French Hem And Haw

Then the French government began to hem and haw. It could not, the French deputies indicated as delicately as possible, afford to ante up the necessary funds to entertain the United Nations in the manner to which it has become accustomed in the U. S.

It would dearly love to play host to the U. N. General Assembly, the French National Assembly said, but sacre bleu! For lack of $3,000,000 or one billion francs, it must deprive itself of this estimable privilege.

For it was estimated at the United Nations that France would have to pony up that much wampum, in addition to a U. N. allowance of $2,000,000 to pay the costs of a General Assembly session in gay Paree, where the boys can oo-la-la and pinch Marie.

So the French National Assembly, faced by a possible bill of $5,000,000, never issued the invitation.

Changed Mind

Now leave us leap forward in time until February 1 when a beaming Latin American delegate arose at an assembly meeting in Lake Success and said he had valid reason to believe the French government had changed its mind and would welcome the next assembly gathering.

The French delegate, taken by surprise, arose and stoutly denied there had been any change of heart. It was still no dice. But the Latin American delegate was right.

Twenty-four hours later the French delegation apparently received advice from home that the next assembly meeting would be persona grata and welcome was being woven into the mat.

Invitation Was Near

And it is understood that when the Rene Pleven government fell in Paris about two weeks ago, it was on the point of issuing the coveted invitation to the U. N. Assembly.

How come the switch? Gossip at the United Nations delicately suggests South America's beef and wheat multi-millionaires, who spend so much time in Paree, passed the hat among themselves to the tune of $3,000,000 or one billion francs and, in turn, presented it to the French government out of love and admiration for the United Nations, la bella France and la vie Parisienne.

The U. N. General Assembly was to have met at Lake Success last Saturday to vote a definite locale for its autumnal gathering. But the meeting has been indefinitely postponed—until such time, doubtless—as the French can issue an invitation for the final United Nations nights out in Paris before beginning durance vile in New York.

WILL ERECT PLANT

PHILADELPHIA, March 15.—(INS)—General Refractories company today announced plans for construction of a $3,000,000 plant on the Delaware river at Morrisville, Pa.

Floyd L. Greene, president of the firm, said the new plant will manufacture silica refractories, materials which resist high temperatures in furnaces.

Moles are an abnormal distribution of pigment or color cells in the skin.

New State Code For Third Class Cities Compiled

HARRISBURG, March 15.—(INS)—Provision for bomb shelters, zoning and financial safeguards highlighted today a proposed 100,000-word third class city code sponsored by the Local Government Commission.

Duties and authority of the city officials in Pennsylvania's 47 third class cities have been clarified in the 346-page measure introduced in the senate after more than four years work by the commission staff.

If approved by the leglature and Gov. John S. Fine, the code would become effective January 1, 1952. Theer would be no change in the tax structure.

The proposal also would extend to third class cities in the soft coal belt authority to establish bituminous mine inspection and surface support bureaus with power to regulate operations beneath the municipalities. As in the anthracite region, fines for violators convicted of breaching rules would be subject to $300 fines or 90 days in prison for each offense.

Although the code would tighten administrative practices, the framework of third class city governments would not be changed.

County Firemen In Monthly Meet

Lawrence County Firemen's association had its monthly meeting in the Neshannock Township fire hall Wednesday evening, which was preceded by an oyster supper.

Ed. Miller and his committee, aided by members of the auxiliary served the supper.

Only routine business was transacted at the business meeting, following which a program of entertainment was enjoyed under the direction of Jim Messner, Neshannock Township fire chief. This was a "beat the clock" program which provided considerable merriment.

The door prize of the evening went to Secretary Joe Sparr and wife of the Taylor township department.

NEW CENTER ADDED STIMULUS FOR 4-H

The program for 4-H boys and girls in Lawrence County, will have added national flavor this year as a result of the opening recently in Washington, D. C., of a new National 4-H Center.

Established by the National 4-H Club Foundation of America, Inc., a private corporation, the center will help train rural youth leaders and, in general, provide a focal point for national 4-H activities.

The center consists of the grounds (11 acres) and buildings formerly occupied by the Chevy Chase Junior College. Located at 6410 Connecticut avenue; it includes a dormitory, auditorium, food service and other facilities.

Foundation trustees include J. M. Fry, of the Pennsylvania State College, state director of the Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Service, and in charge of all 4-H Club work in the State. All trustees are representatives of the land-grant colleges or the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Directly in charge of the center will be Edward W. Aiton, executive secretary of the Foundation. A National 4-H official for many years, Alton is well known to Pennsylvania 4-H leaders and to many Club members.

National 4-H Camp delegates (four to be selected from Pennsylvania) will visit the center in June for their annual Camp program. Four club members, Herbert Dice and Sara Sandoe, Franklin County, and Creta Epley and Lyndell Brandon, Adams County, and Allen L. Baker, State 4-H Leader of the College, represented Pennsylvania at the dedication in mid-February.

Nominations already have been made from the different counties for National 4-H Camp delegates for 1951. Final selections will be announced by the 4-H Club Office at the College.

PLAN MAKES YOUR WORK EASIER

Having a plan is one of the best ways to simplify your housework, especially your housecleaning. No one plan will work for every homemaker, but you can modify the plan to suit your needs. If you are willing to study your job, try new methods, watch your steps and motions, and select and use equipment wisely. You'll soon learn the easier way to housework.

These are the general points suggested for consideration in a plan: List all the jobs to be done; question each job; when should it be done; who can best do the job; and how is the best way to do it.

After you have your work plan, then you can divide the job into three parts: get ready for the job; do it; and clean up after it is finished.

In the get ready part, you can decide how and when the job will be done, and collect the equipment and supplies you will need for it.

When you do the job, the second part, make every motion count, using both hands whenever you can. Use the best tool for the job and leave out any part that you can, yet get satisfactory results.

The third part of the job, clean up, is important for that well-satisfied feeling. Clean all the tools and put everything back in its proper place.

Other suggestions for easier housework are given in a circular "Quick and Easy Housecleaning". For your free copy of this circular, send a post card with your name and address to the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Building, New Castle, and give the name of the publication which you desire.

Route 18 Contract In Beaver Co. Let

Highway department officials in Harrisburg have announced that work on route 18 in Beaver county will be started soon by the Ferguson and Edmondson Co. of Pittsburgh, who bid $312,073 for the work, which includes reconstruction of the bridge over the Beaver river between Beaver Falls and New Brighton.

The contract calls for construction of .42 miles of reinforced concrete pavement and reconstruction of two bridges of bituminous surface on existing pavement. Beaver Falls city council must share $21,405 worth of the repair work.

Contractor Has Leg Fractured

Kiwanis Hears Appeal For Funds For The Crippled

New Castle Kiwanis club members had a program presented under the auspices of the Lawrence County Chapter of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, at their weekly luncheon in The Castleton, Wednesday noon.

John A. McGrath, past president of the club, and chairman of the Lawrence County Chapter, spoke of the aims of the organization locally, and of the great need to carry on work among these handicapped persons.

The program was concluded with the showing of the talking picture, "Search" which shows how these handicapped ones are searching and groping for rehabilitation.

Bratton Wins NBA Welterweight Championship In Close Fight

Charley Fusari Loser Through Point System

By KEN OPSTEIN
(International News Service Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, March 15.—Johnny Bratton is the National Boxing Association's new welterweight champion today but he won't be fore long—or so says the courageous fighter he beat, Charlie Fusari, of Irvington, N. J.

Bratton must forfeit his provisional title or meet Cuba's Kid Gavilan by April 28. And Fusari says:

"Johnny hasn't got a chance."

Fusari Wins Cheers

The 23-year-old Chicagoan gained a 15-round split decision over Fusari last night at the Chicago stadium but Bratton didn't win many friends.

Fusari won most of the cheers from the 6,954 fans who witnessed the bloody bout and he might have won the fight had it been scored on a round-by-round basis instead of the point system.

Very Close Decision

The actual scoring showed Fusari the victor by a 76 to 74 margin in judge John Bray's card. Judge Ed Hintz and referee Tommy Gilmore favored Bratton, however, by 77 to 73 and 78 to 72 respectively.

Bray gave Fusari eight rounds, Bratton five and called two even. Hintz awarded each fighter six rounds and said three were even. Gilmore named Bratton the winner of seven rounds, gave five to Fusari and saw three even.

This would have meant a Fusari victory on the round-by-round system.

Bratton had a definite edge in the first ten rounds. He floored Fusari in the fourth and tenth rounds.

Fusari Dazed

The right hook that sent Fusari tumbling to the floor in the tenth dazed him badly and some fans thought the count reached ten before he stumbled to his feet.

But the fighting milkman was anything but finished. He fought back with blood streaming from a gash over his left eye and trickling from his nose.

He plodded forward methodically. He jabbed with his left and hooked with his right. He was unable to see out of his left eye from the 11th round until the finish.

But two judges gave him no worse than a draw in any of the last five rounds after he got off the canvas.

Bratton Hurts Hand

Bratton claimed that he was unable to do much after the tenth because he hurt his right hand when he smashed Fusari to the canvas. Some observers thought Bratton simply tired.

He had a swelling under his right eye in addition to his hand injury but said "for the championship, it was so little to pay."

Fusari's ear was cuffed during the bout. That and the gash over his left eye will keep him out of the ring for two months.

Each fighter received $8,889 and $1,500 more for television rights. Bratton couldn't go on any spending spree with his purse, however. He had to give the NBA $5,000 guarantee that he would fight Gavilan in 45 days.

Farrell Spills Monessen, 40-37, Win WPIAL Titel

McCoy's 26 Points Steelers Impetus

Mr. Julius McCoy last night picked up a Farrell high basketball team that had sagged woefully in the third period and carried them to a 40-37 win over Monessen and a WPIAL title in crowded Pitt stadium.

The left-hand genius registered with three consecutive hook shots after Monessen had taken a 34-31 lead with but two and a half minutes remaining.

Farrell had, at one time, a 24-12, second quarter advantage, lost it, and righted themselves only after McCoy spun in his third quarter dueces.

Monessen was sparked by Joe Pastrkovich who hooped 18 before he fouled out with four minutes to play.

Lampkins, who was kept on the bench the third period because of four personals, eventually helped McCoy and Farrell swing the outcome.

The Steelers will play Somerset in the PIAA Western Regional quarter-finals on Saturday.

Tri-County Tourney Enters Semi-Final Round Tonight

Union To Meet New Wilmington

Bessemer Takes On Mt. Jackson

Semi-final games in the Tri-County tournament at the Westminster College gym will be played tonight, both in the championship and consolation divisions.

In the championship division Union meets New Wilmington and Mt. Jackson plays Bessemer. In consolation games Evans City battles Zelienople and Shenango takes on East Brook.

First game on tonight's card will be the Evans City-Zelienople consolation division tilt, scheduled for 6:30. New Wilmington will play Union in the second contest, Shenango meets East Brook in the third, and Mt. Jackson and Bessemer will clash in the final.

Should Be Close

Both games in the championship division of the tournament promise to be close contests. In two previous meetings this season Union and New Wilmington split, each winning on its home court.

The Scotland Laners entered the semi-finals by dumping Evans City 57-50, while the Greyhounds subdued Zelienople 48-37 to complete the elimination of out-of-county teams from the championship flight.

In the other game in the championship division—between Bessemer and Mt. Jackson—one of the oldest rivalries in the county will be revived. Bessemer holds two decisions over its neighbor from North Beaver township, but the Mounties are always tough for the Cementers.

Mt. Jackson entered the semi-finals by tripping Shenango 54-37, while Bessemer edged East Brook 35-33 to keep in the running.

Winners of the games in both divisions will meet in the finals at the college gym Saturday night.

TOURNAMENT SHORTS

In tonight's game between New Wilmington and Union, the tallest and shortest teams in the tournament will clash . . . The Scotties can put an all six-foot starting team on the floor, while the Greyhounds' tallest starter falls an inch short of the six foot mark . . . Last year's finalists, New Wilmington and Mt. Jackson, have a chance to repeat last year's performance, though both are slight underdogs tonight . . . Evans City and East Brook are favorites to enter the consolation finals.

NIT Semi-Final Games Tonight

Dayton Vs. St. John's, Seton Hall Vs. Brigham

By JOHN BARRINGTON
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, March 15.—The modern-day basketball adage about height making right will be put to test tonight in the semi-finals of the 14th national invitation tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The opening game in the round of four pits unseeded Dayton against top-ranked St. John's. In the second game, unseeded Seton Hall goes to the well against third-seeded Brigham Young.

The winners meet Saturday for the championship.

At stake for both St. John's and Brigham Young tonight is the chance to duplicate CCNY's grand slam of last season. Both are NCAA tourney entries.

Award Letter To Jos. Weinschenk Jr.

Buffalo Bisons Eastern Champs

Hornets Defeat Springfield, 3-2

The Buffalo Bisons, champions of the American Hockey League's Eastern Division, will invade the Cleveland Barons' stronghold next Tuesday night in the opening round of the Calder cup playoffs.

Pressed by the Hershey Bears in the closing weeks of the season, the Bisons nailed down the Eastern sector title last night by beating Indianapolis Caps, 4-2, with two final period goals.

Hornets Win

Although the runnerup Bears beat Providence, 4-3, last night, they could not win the Eastern sector title even if Buffalo loses.

The Pittsburgh Hornets moved ahead of idle Cincinnati in the battle for the sole remaining playoff berth in the Western Division by edging Springfield, 3-2.

Young Wally Hergsheimer's new league record for rookie scoring highlighted the Cleveland Barons' 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Flyers. The right wing came through with his 41st of the season.

Pittsburgh goes to Hershey and St. Louis visits Cincinnati tonight.

HILLERS TO MEET

Eden-Hillers baseball team of the North County league will hold an important meeting at Arena's on route 224 west of Edenburg tonight at 7:30.

All players who wish to play for the Hillers this coming season should attend the meeting.

Indians Defeat Pirates, 10 To 6

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Mar. 15—(INS)—Ralph Kiner tried his hand at first base in a game yesterday with the Cleveland Indians which Pittsburgh dropped Pirate fashion 10-6.

The slugger, who also smashed a triple to drive in two runs, handled nine chance at first base cleanly.

Bonus baby Paul Pettit fanned five Indian batters, but also gave up five runs in the fourth, including a home run to pitcher Bob Lemon.

The loss was the Bucs second in the spring season as against three wins.

Allentown Sets Palestra Record By Winning, 103-55

PHILADELPHIA, March 15 — (INS)—Allentown high scored a record-breaking 103-55 victory over St. Clair high in the PIAA Class A District 11 basketball finals at the Palestra last night.

The Canaries thereby earned the right to meet Radnor, the district one champions, in the first inter-district match Saturday on the same court.

Indians Need New Infield

Eikenberg Demands Voluntary Retirement

By the looks of things the New Castle Indians are going to present an entirely new infield for 1951—the only regular infielder of the 1950 team not in service is George Eikenberg, who has demanded $1,000 for signing and also asked for his voluntary retirement if this is not granted.

Vizzini, Dondero and Mouton are now in the service. It had been hoped that Eikenberg, the sensational young shortstop, would return here. His recent letters to President Al Scarazzo are not very encouraging.

New Castle recently bought Chet Butler, an infielder, from Johnstown, but so far Butler has not written the local club. Butler can play either third or second.

Toles May Play First

Ted Toles, a young Negro star, may get the first base assignment but will have Steve Magula to contend with.

An almost sure bet for outfield duty here this summer is Rudy Johnston, a strapping big Negro star who is already under contract. Johnston was with Harrisburg last year and is said to be a terrific hitter. Toles and Johnston have been assigned here by the Cleveland Indians.

Manager Al Milnar will have a chance in Florida to pick up several young stars for the New Castle team.

No word has been received yet from Walt Kowalski or Don Lavigne, both boys having been bought recently from Johnstown.

K. Pulaskis Lose To Slippery Rock In Semi-Finals

The K. Pulaski "Big Five" lost a tough 54-50 decision to the Slippery Rock college varsity five last night in a semi-final game at the Oil City tournament.

The collegians held a 15-7 lead the first period and at the half 27-12. The Slippery Rock team used an effective court press the first half. In the second half the Teddy Kolcz coached Pulaskis came back strong trailing only 37-34 as the third period ended. The Pulaskis trailed but 47-46 with a minute and a half left to play. Slippery Rock finished strong.

Brandes and Yuhas led the Pulaskis in scoring with 11 and 10 points respectively.

The Pulaskis will meet the Pennland Tankers in the consolation game Saturday at 8:15 o'clock. In the championship game the Clarion State Teachers will meet the Slippery Rock Teachers.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

MAURICE NIELSEN, general chairman of the Lawrence County Sportsman's association which will hold a banquet for men, women and children, in the Cathedral April 12 evening (three days prior to the opening of trout season) has named a number of members to help carry the fete to a successful conclusion, and judging from the interest already displayed in the get-together of outdoors enthusiasts, it will be replete with success.

The members named to help carry the banquet to a success are James Boyd, Henry Rodgers, William Weitz, Eddie Fritz Jr., Thomas Spiers, Wally Bowers, Jack Diamond, Michael Fazzone, Howard Price, William G. McKee, and George F. Bolinger. Chairman Nieisen said today he intends to name more members to aid those already appointed.

Tickets for the stuffed pork-chop dinner may be obtained at places as follows: Nielsen's Jewelry, Sullivan's Barber shop, Samuel's Barber shop, Dawson's Sporting Goods store, Irwin's market, Sportsmen's Gun shop, Ross Electric company, Reynolds & Summers, Fazzone's Barber shop, Brindle Printing company, Mooney Gun store, Rote's confectionery and Alderman J. C. Kennedy.

Chairman Nielsen also announced that President James Boyd has informed him that at 8 o'clock, Tuesday next, there will be a fish fry in the Ecclesian club. Motion pictures will also be displayed, and it is anticipated that the crowd will be the banner assembly of the winter meetings.

Last Tuesday a shipment of trout was put in the Slippery Rock.

Bob Betts, fish protector of Lawrence county, in speaking of the assistance given him by sportsmen said:

"I'm very thankful to the sportsmen who aided in the stocking. I will need assistance in further stockings, for which I also will be thankful."

Betts stated that considerable of the trout stocked were of good size.

JUDGING from the six-round decision Bill Bradley won over Jerry Hemminger at Toledo, Tuesday night, he is in line of future bouts there. Hemminger holds a knockout over Walter Cartier, a highly rated middleweight. Judging from the response to telephone inquiries concerning the Westminster-Evansville floor game, fans were somewhat dismayed by the Titans' defeat. . . . Fishermen should not forget that it is illegal to fish until five a.m. April 15 in any stream in the county. Fishing may be enjoyed only in streams, lakes and ponds not stocked with trout. Fish Protector Bob Betts has posted notices along streams which have been stocked. "Rosy" White, former fish warden of New Wilmington, is out of a hospital where he underwent a leg operation. "Rosy" says that because his and the writer's hair is red, and there is a facial similarity, plus size and weight, he often has been mistaken for Here and There. . . . Harold Sewall, a News printer, will follow his usual custom this trout season. He takes his vacation the first week of the season. . . . Reports state "No Fishing—Trout Stocked Here" signs have been torn down along Slippery Rock creek. This violation of law may result in arrests.

Sportsmen At Bessemer Friday

LCSA Wants Farm Pond Laws Changed

Joe Kraynak, public relations agent of the Lawrence County Council of Sportsmen, stated today the council would meet Friday night as the guests of the Bessemer Rod & Gun club, at Bessemer.

At the meeting, the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association, an affiliate of the council will present a resolution urging the present fish regulations be changed so as to not apply to farm ponds.

Farm ponds, at present, are regarded as "inland waters" and bag and creel limits, are in effect. The resolution would, if adopted by the fish commission, do away with this phase.

If the council adopts the resolution, it will be forwarded to the northwest division, State Federation of Sportsmen, for the attention of the fish commission.

Salvation Army Receives Many Requests For Aid

The Salvation Army reports that during the past two weeks several cases have come to their attention that are in dire need of furniture. For example: A family of six which has been separated in different parts of the state because of their inability to secure a home for all members of the family were fortunate in finding a six room house here in New Castle, but have been unable to form a family unit because of lack of furniture and funds to furnish the home.

A veteran's home was burned to the ground, and he needs a little help with furnishings to get back on his feet. Two other families in poor circumstances who are unable to obtain table and chairs are eating from wooden boxes.

We have cited only a few cases that have come in lately. We at the present time do not have a supply of furniture to help any of these families. Therefore, we are wondering that if during your spring cleaning you come across some usuable furniture in your attic or cellar that is of no value or use to you, if you would remember The Salvation Army and call 1882, and we will be glad to furnish hauling so that you can help these families out as soon as possible.

The local branch of The Salvation Army is celebrating St. Patrick's Day by having a St. Patrick's Day party for the youth activities on Wednesday. And, also, a "Pat Shenanigen" Party for the Ladies Home League on Thursday, after which they will conduct a sale of hand-made articles. These are open to the public.

Twelve Bible students of the local corps, who take a six-year Bible course by correspondence, are conducting the Palm Sunday Service from 11 a.m. to 12 a.m. Junior Girl Scouts, known in the Salvation Army as the Sunbeams, are conducting a "Divine Service" meeting in honor of Palm Sunday on Palm Sunday evening from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The officers-in-charge of the local corps are Envoy and Mrs. Robert J. Marshall.

Asks That Pennies Be Put Back In Circulation Now

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(INS)—The government asked Americans today to cough up the millions of copper pennies believed stored in piggy-banks, sugar bowls and bureau drawers.

Mint director Nellie Tayloe Ross said the demand for new coins has quadrupled since the Korean war. She asked that the millions of pennies be returned to circulation to save copper and cut replacement costs.

The government didn't say so but apparently it wants the public to replace the saved-up pennies with other coins or bills, since savings are considered a major weapon against inflation.

New York Stocks

Firmer Stock Market Tone

NEW YORK, March 15.—(INS)—A firmer tone developed in the stock market today, following three successive setbacks. Most shares chalked up fractional gains and some rose even more.

Trading was at a fairly brisk pace with 490,000 shares crossing the tape in the first hour.

Railroad issues featured, several showing advances exceeding a point. Television shares also attracted buyers and Zenith climbed two points.

Buying apparently was based on the belief the list had been oversold in the three preceding sessions. The rails were bolstered by the interim freight rate increase.

At 11 a. m. the Dow Jones industrial averages were up 70 cents and rails were up 54 cents. Utilities were off six cents.

Illinois Central railroad led its division with a one and a half point bulge. Southern Railway rose a point, and others were up fractions.

In addition to Zenith, strong TV issues included Motorola, Philco and Emerson. General Motors was soft but other stocks, including Chrysler, edged forward. Steels held about even. Oils were steady. Coppers, rubbers and aviations were irregular.

Government bond men reported a slightly easier tone in the treasury list. Corporate liens were quiet and a shade lower. Cotton showed firmness but grains eased.

TO HONOR GRANDMA

PHILADELPHIA, March 15.—(INS)—Grandma Moses, America's oldest woman artist, will be honored today by the country's oldest art school for women.

The aged artist receives a degree of honorary doctor of fine arts from the Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry.

Grandma Moses, who never took an art lesson, specializes in primitives. A collection of 50 of her paintings recently toured six major art centers of Europe.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Red Skelton answer the $64 question: What makes a professional funnyman laugh?

Red claims that every comedian laughs hardest at his own jokes—even though he may not do so in public.

"Some comics think it is bad form to enjoy their own jokes, but believe me they wouldn't be using the story if they didn't think it funny and if it is funny then it follows they must get a bang out of it."

Red has been making people laugh ever since he joined a traveling medicine show as a boy 25 years ago. He keeps 300,000 comic situations and jokes cross-indexed in his personal files, all arranged neatly in alphabetical order.

Favorite Jokes

And like everyone else, he has his own favorite jokes, the ones he considers sure-fire when used on any type of audience. The top favorites include:

No. 1 is about the man who dashed into a hardware store, pounded on the counter and demanded: "Give me a mouse trap . . . I've got to catch a bus." To which the clerk replied, "Sorry, we don't have any that big."

Second concerns two drunks who are in a hospital, all banged up. Says the first, "What happened?" The second drunk replies, "Well, we were on the tenth floor and you opened the window and said you were going to fly around the block." To which the first drunk says, "Why didn't you stop me?" And the second drunk answers, "I thought you could make it."

Th third favorite story is about the fellow who had been out of work for ages and who finally got a job digging a grave. He was so happy about his job that he dug the hole 10 feet deep, then discovered he could not get out. Around dusk, a drunk came staggering by and heard the man's cries for help. The drunk asked, "For goodness sakes, what are you doing down there?" To which the fellow in the hole replied, "Get me out. I'm cold." To which the drunk answered as he rapidly kicked dirt into the hole, "Well, no wonder, you darn fool, you ain't got any dirt over you."

Another is about the heartbroken little boy who ran away from home to punish his parents. After circling the block four times, he was asked by a smiling policeman what he was doing. To which the little boy replied: "My mummie is too mean, so I'm running away and I'm never coming back." The policeman, still smiling, said, "I see. But why do you keep going around the block?" To which the little boy answered, with emphasis: "Well, I'm not allowed to cross the street."

At least they tickle Red's funnybone.

SPECIAL FOREWORD

A special foreword is being added to Warner Bros.' "Storm Warning" so that foreign audiences will not get the idea that the Ku Klux Klan is active in every American city. An explanatory note at the beginning of the picture states it represents an incident of bigotry in the south which all Americans wish to eliminate.

SOMETHING FISHY

APARRI, P. I.—(INS)—There's something fishy with the fish situation in the northern fishing village of Aparri: fish has virtually disappeared from market stalls. Fisherman are turning to land crops because a municipal ordinance prohibits them from selling fish at more than 15 cents a kilo.

RECREATION FUND

City of New Castle recreation fund had a balance of $26,492.39, as of January 5, 1951, according to a controller's report.
